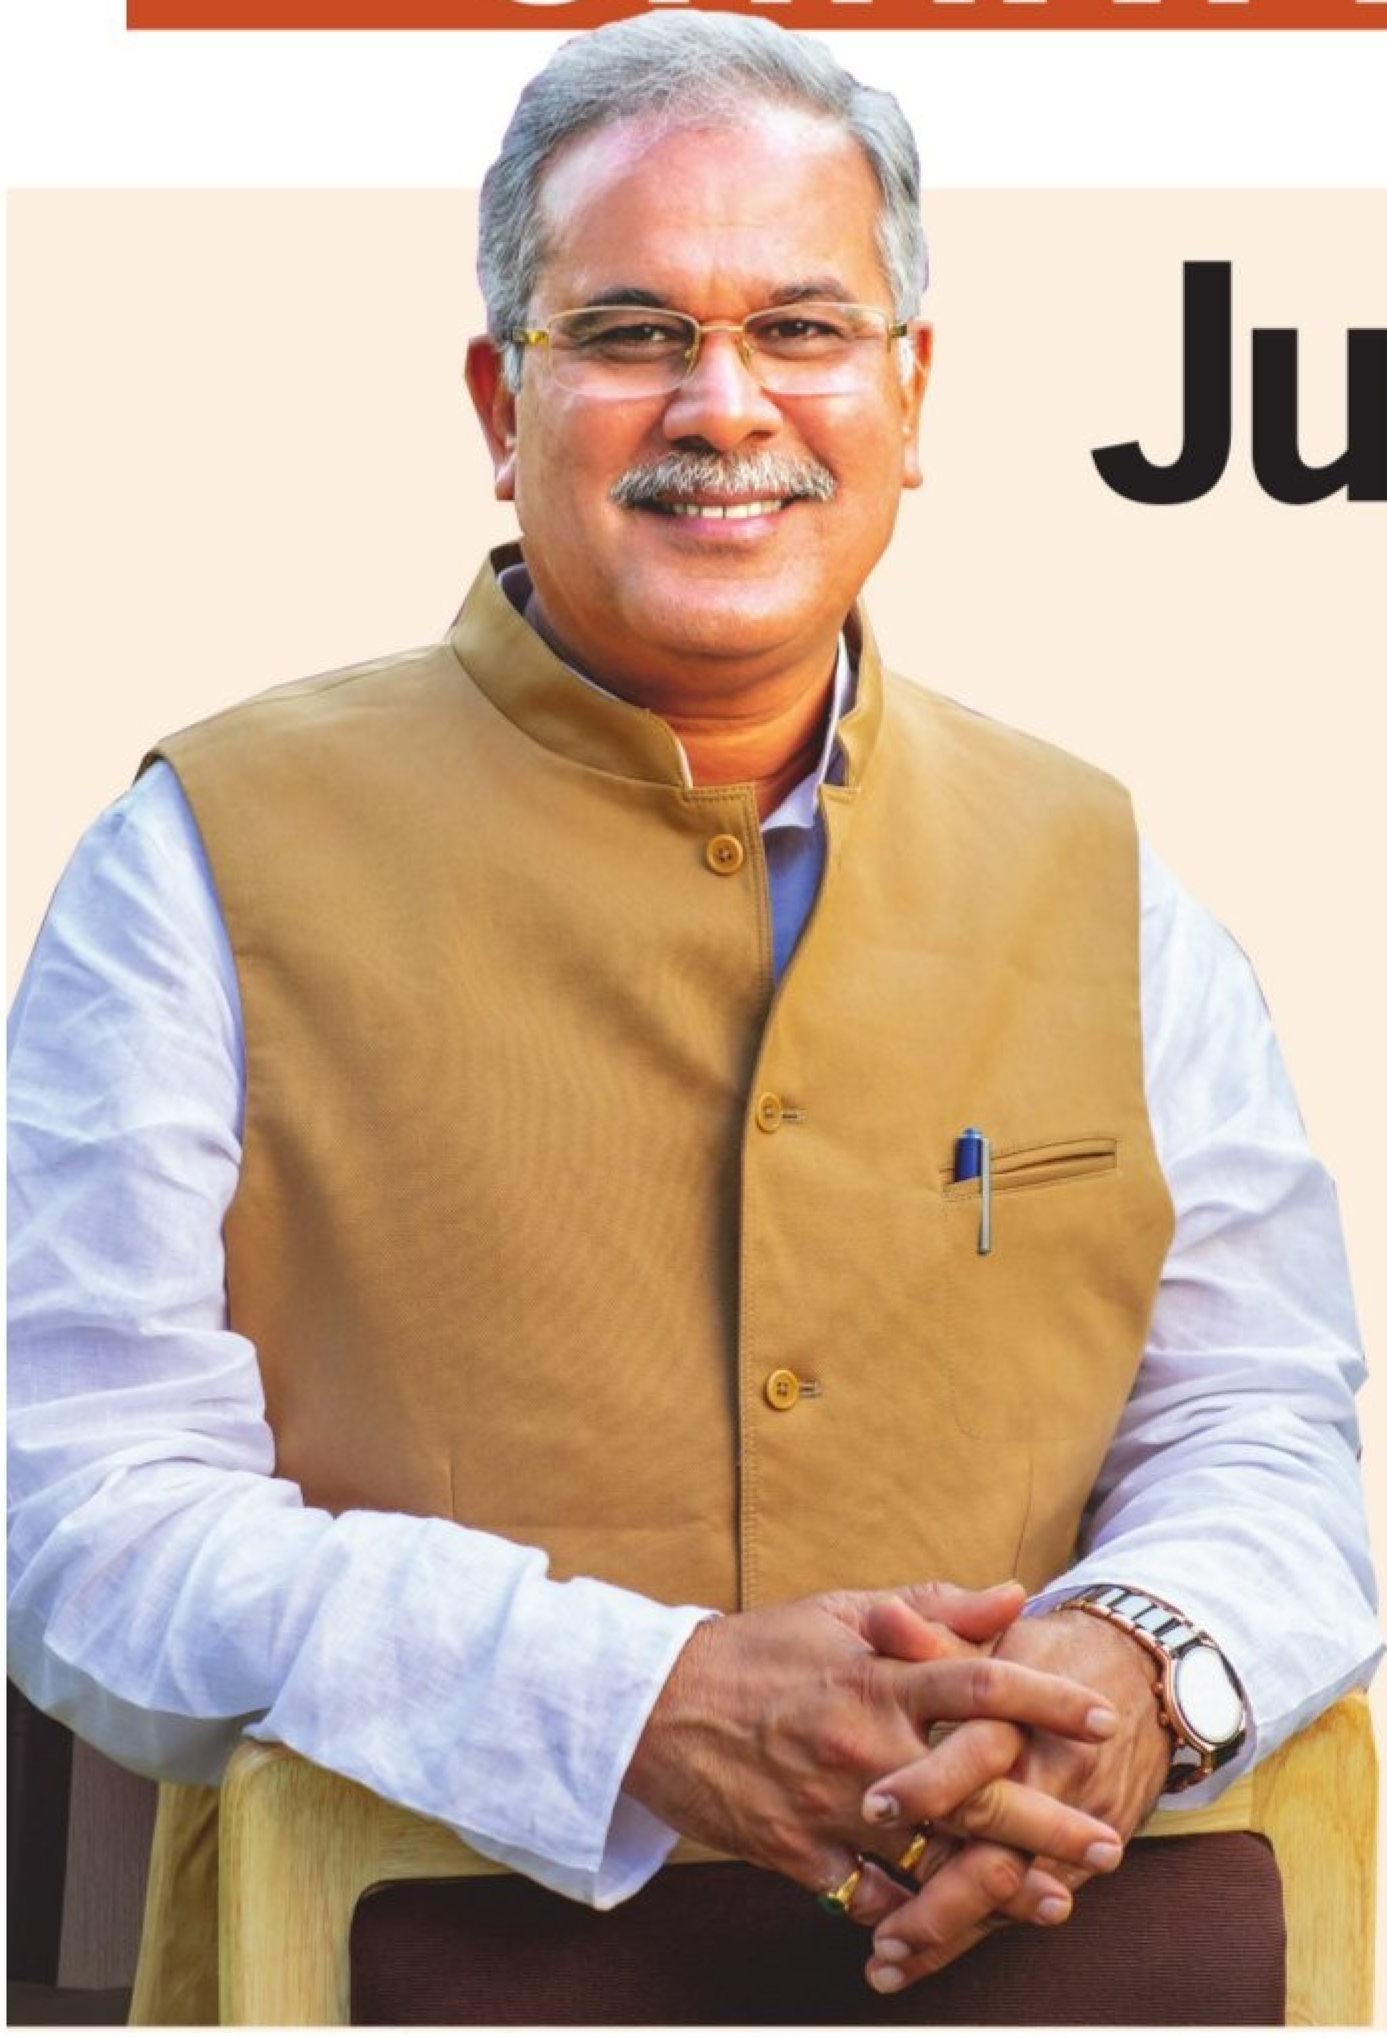
Sibal's platform 'Insaaf' to fight 'injustice'

Alleging that a government working against the citizens is at the helm, Rajya Sabha MP Kapil Sibal on Saturday announced a new platform 'Insaaf' to fight "injustice" prevailing in the country and called on everyone, including Opposition chief ministers and leaders, to support him in his endeavour. Sibal said he would hold a public meeting of the new platform at Jantar Mantar on March 11 and will put forward a new vision of India there. |P12

CHHATTISGARH



Justice for All

The Bhupesh Baghel led government of Chhattisgarh believes in delivering good governance to the last person standing

The Chhattisgarh Model of Development believes in ideas not identity politics; in protecting the rights of the vulnerable populations rather than their exploitation; and in welfare policies that encourage participation not populism. By focusing on farming and forest yield, it ensures that people are not treated as mere beneficiaries, but as protagonists of their own progress. The government ensures forest, water and land is provided to the rightful person.

EMPOWERING FARMERS

A Profitable Partnership

They are getting the highest payment in the country for their produce. Farmers of the state top the list in selling their paddy crop at the support price. With 107.53 Lakh MT (Metric Tonnes), the state has registered a new benchmark in the purchase of paddy procurement.

FOREST DWELLERS

Protecting that which protects us

Thanks to the Chhattisgarh Government's efforts, people of the state who depend on forest yield could make a livelihood from forest yields and see an increase in their incomes. The state government went on a spree to purchase 65 minor forest produce, topping the list of states in the country in purchase of minor forest produce. It also tops the list of states in providing their rights over forest reserves available in the state.

Law Min says govt's stand on judges' selection is as per Constitution

Rijiju: Can't question judiciary

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhubaneswar

UNION Minister for Law and Justice Kiren Rijiju on Saturday lambasted the Opposition for doubting the intent of the Indian judiciary and trying to malign the image of the country.

Inaugurating the first conference of the Centre's counsels of eastern states here, Rijiju said the Indian judiciary cannot be questioned, especially the wisdom of judges which cannot be put to public scrutiny.

Union minister Kiren Rijiju

"At times, calibrated attempts are being made from both inside and outside the country to tell the world that the Indian judiciary is in crisis. Hence, the message which is being sent is to tell that Indian democracy is in crisis. It is a deliberate attempt by some groups to malign the image of the country," he said.

The Union law minister's assertion came days after Congress leader and MP Rahul Gandhi's remarks at Cambridge University where he stated that Indian democracy is under pressure.

In a veiled attack, Rijiju said no campaign whatsoever with ulterior motives can succeed in defaming India and its democratic set-up.

"The US may say they are the oldest democracy, but India truly is the mother of democracy," he asserted. The minister said since everybody cannot have the same opinion, the opinions of the executive and judiciary may differ at times.

Clearing the air on the Centre's disapproval of the appointment of judges by way of judicial orders, the minister said when the government says the appointment of judges cannot be done by judicial orders, it is a stand taken because of the constitution. That does not mean that the government disregarded the judiciary", he stated.

Foxconn: No definitive pacts for investments

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A day after it signed a "Letter of Intent" with the Karnataka government, Foxconn, the world's largest contract manufacturer of electronics on Saturday stated that it has not entered into a definitive agreement for investments in India.

The letter of intent was signed in the presence of Karnataka Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and Foxconn CEO and Chairman Young Liu in Bengaluru for setting up a manufacturing facility on 300 acres at ITIR (Information Technology Investment Region) industrial area in Doddaballapur and Devanahalli taluks within a period of five years (2023-2027). P15

Migrant workers safe in TN: Stalin to Nitish

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

TAMIL Nadu Chief Minsiter MK Stalin on Saturday spoke to his Bihar counterpart Nitish Kumar over phone and assured him that workers from Bihar and other states are safe in Tamil Nadu and swift action would be taken against rumourmongers spreading panic.

Meanwhile, the Tamil Nadu police have booked four people, including editor of Dainik Bhaskar over alleged fake reports on attack on workers. Strongly condemning rumormongers who spread canards about workers from other states being attacked in Tamil Nadu, Stalin said such people are working against the unity of the country and are doing dirty politics over a non-issue. He also warned strict legal action against those who deliberately spread rumours and cause fear and panic in Tamil Nadu by sharing videos and pictures of incidents that took place elsewhere.

Speaking at the centenary celebrations of CPI leader P Manickam here, Stalin said, "I say this to those who try to gain political mileage by creating disturbances for workers from Bihar. They will be contained with an iron hand."

In a four-page statement, the Tamil Nadu CM said, "Workers from the North need not have any fear. If someone threatens them, they may seek help through the police helpline numbers that have been notified. I promise that action will be taken on all information/complaints."

Staff flag Rs 300 cr scam in KS&DL

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

AMID the probe launched by the Karnataka Lokayukta into alleged corruption charges against Karnataka Soaps & Detergents Limited chairman and BJP MLA K Madal Virupakshappa, the Karnataka Soaps and Detergents Limited (KS&DL) Employees Union has flagged irregularities to the tune of Rs 300 crore in the state-owned enterprise and pointed fingers at members of the purchasing committee.

MLA Virupakshappa resigned from the post of KS&DL chairman on Thursday.

The KS&DL EU has alleged that the procedural lapse and violation of norms as per the purchase manual, store manual and delegation of powers by members of the purchasing committee is the root cause for the alleged irregularities.

Give cow protected national animal tag: HC

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

THE Lucknow bench of the Allahabad High Court recently urged the Centre to ban cow slaughter in the country and declare cow a "national protected animal", since it represents divinity across faiths.

Passing the order on February 14, a single-judge bench comprising Justice Shamim Ahmed cited the Puranas to say that anyone who killed cows or allowed others to kill them would rot in hell. Since India is a secular country, all religions, including Hinduism, should be respected, he said.

"We are living in a secular country and must have respect for all religions and in Hinduism, the belief and faith is that cow is representative of divine and natural beneficence and should therefore be protected and venerated."

The judge traced the origin of the veneration of the cow to the Vedic era. Referring to the Mahabharata, he stated: "Bhishma (grandfather of the leaders of warring factions) observes that the cow acts as a surrogate mother by providing milk to human beings for a lifetime, so she is truly the mother of the world."

He recalled that in late 19th and 20th centuries, a movement to protect cows had demanding that the government ban cow slaughter.

"This Court also hope and trust that the Central Government may take appropriate decision to ban cow slaughtering in the country and to declare the same as 'protected national animal'." The bench passed the order while hearing a plea filed by one Mohammad Abdul Khaliq, who had sought quashing of a criminal case against him for cow slaughter and its transport for sale. The court found that a prima facie case was made out against the accused.

"From the perusal of the materials on record and looking into the facts of the present case and after considering the arguments made at the bar, it does not appear that no offence has been made out against the applicant," said Justice Ahmad.

RED-LETTER DAY

A postmaster, on the verge of retirement, opens Sukanya Samriddhi accounts for 200 girls in Koppal

What is Sukanya Samriddhi Yojana?

As part of the 'Beti Bachao Beti Padhao' campaign, the central government launched a savings scheme for girl children called the Sukanya Samriddhi Yojana (SSY). According to a central government order in 2019, the account can be opened in the name of a girl child who has not attained the age of 10. The tenure of investment is 21 years while the total amount deposited in a financial year cannot exceed Rs 1,50,000.

> There are many saving schemes that Indian Post offers along with other banking services. They can begin by depositing small amounts. Women workers in spinning mills and wig-making factories are our target. If they are benefitted, they can also suggest the same to their co-workers
>
> YY Kolur

> I have heard about savings schemes for girls. But when senior officials visited my home, I learned about many other aspects. I will be grateful to Kolur for opening the accounts for our two girl children with his own money. We will start depositing money in the accounts --
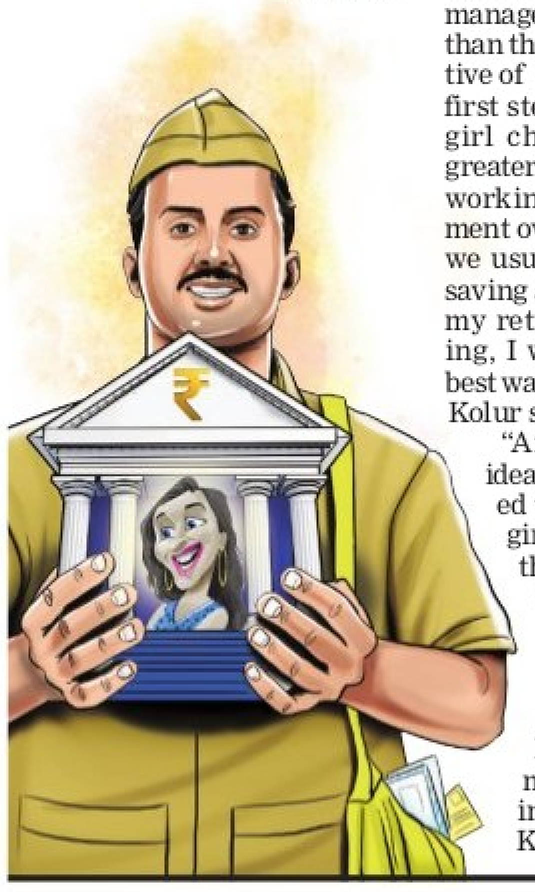
>
> A beneficiary



AMIT S UPADHYE @Koppal

RABINDRANATH gore in his short story "The Postmaster" captured the relationship of a postmaster in a village with an orphaned girl, Ratan, who cared for and served him when he was battling an illness. Soon, the postmaster sought a transfer, which was approved, leaving Ratan in a flood of tears and wandering about the post office.

Unlike Tagore's postmaster, who came from Calcutta (now Kolkata), this postal employee from Koppal, who will be retiring next month, opened Sukanya Samriddhi accounts for 200 girls as a departing gift.

At present, an LSG (low selection grade) postmaster in Koppal, YY Kolur has worked tirelessly over the last few weeks to identify the beneficiaries with the help of his colleagues from the postal department.

The monumental task began with the gathering of information about the girls' families and their financial condition from postmen and residents in Koppal. After identifying them, it was time to put their names on a list and open their accounts. Last month, he deposited Rs 250 each, the minimum amount, into the accounts of 200 girls. Since they have not attained the age of 18, their accounts will be managed by their parents. More than the amount, it is the initiative of laying the edifice of the first step towards empowering girl children which bears a greater value. "As we have been working in the postal department over the last four decades, we usually get the benefits of saving account schemes. But as my retirement was approaching, I was thinking about the best way to give back to society," Kolur said.

"After analysing various ideas for a long time, I decided to open accounts for 200 girls. I could also convince their parents on the benefits of opening the accounts. Members of poor families desist from opening accounts in a post office or bank. I counselled them and made them recognise its importance," he said. Kolur, hailing from Hunumasagara in Kushtagi taluk, has been working in Koppal's head post office. During the Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav celebrations, India Post had chosen 75 cities in India, including Koppal, to generate maximum account holders for the Sukanya Samriddhi scheme. Koppal emerged first. Kolur, along with his team, visited the homes of BPL cardholders in Koppal and persuaded them to open savings accounts.

The reverberations of his tremendous work has reached even New Delhi. "Senior officials from Koppal and New Delhi congratulated me for my work. It's a great feeling, and I want more people to invest in postal savings schemes that are meant for girls. I have spent Rs 50,000, and I want the parents to continue investing in the scheme in the interest of their children," he said. "Many BPL families are run by daily wagers, and a majority of them do not understand the concept of savings. We have approached them and explained the benefits of savings so that they have some funds for their families.

There are many saving schemes that Indian Post offers along with other banking services. They can begin by depositing small amounts. Women workers in spinning mills and wig-making factories are our target. If they benefit, they can also suggest it to their co-workers," Kolur said.

One of the beneficiaries from Bhagyanagar said, "I have heard about savings schemes for girls. But when senior officials visited my home, I learned about many other aspects. I am grateful to Kolur for opening the accounts for our two girl children with his own money. We will start depositing money in those accounts."

Deputy Postmaster at the Koppal post office Ravi Kantannavar described Kolur as shy, but serious about his work. "We have seen him work late to complete day-to-day duties of the post office and savings accounts. Kolur played an important in ensuring that Koppal secured the top spot in the Sukanya Samriddhi scheme. We are proud of what he is doing before his retirement. He has worked hard to identify the beneficiaries, and the account holders are happy," he said.

A group of like-minded organisations, led by the Karnataka State Rural Development and Panchayat Raj University, is on a mission to convert a piece of land into a green space

Lesson in greening

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @Gadag

AT a time when modernisation is taking a toll on the environment because of indiscriminate felling of trees, here in the northern plains of Gadag district, a group of organisations is on a mission to turn a patch of land into a lush green forest.

The Karnataka State Rural Development and Panchayat Raj University (KSRDPRU), in association with the Sankalpa Rural Development Society and SBI Foundation, are working on the project, aptly named 'Jana Vana' (people's forest), to develop the forest on the laps of Kappatagudda — known for its medicinal plants.

The university owns 350 acres of land close to Nagavi village near Kappatagudda. The university management committee was informed that 125 acres were not suitable for any construction and the committee, guided by Vice-Chancellor Prof Vishnukant Chatapplli, decided to set aside 10 acres for afforestation. The university joined hands with Sankalpa and SBI Foundation to plant saplings of various species not just to revive biodiversity, but also to increase the oxygen cover of the campus.

On the World Environment Day (June 5) in 2022, the idea finally took off and planting of saplings gained momentum from June 25. Till now, close to 10,000 saplings have been planted and the target is to plant 15,000. The aim is to nurture social forestry, which is the practice of making use of unused and fallow lands to safeguard deeper forests from exploitation. Saplings like gali mara (she-oak), nelli (gooseberry), honge (pongamia), Basavanapada (bauhinia pupurea) and mahogany have been planted.

The team waters the saplings every day and has built a tank to store water. It has erected a fence around Jana Vana to prevent cattle and other animals from entering the forest. "We have converted the 10-acre stretch into a green belt. The SBI Foundation will take care of the saplings for two years," says a university employee, who is part of the afforestation campaign.

Sikandar Meeranayak from Sankalpa says, "We are now taking care of the plants as it is a little difficult to maintain them during summer. We are now using tankers to water the saplings and also created an artificial pond. We thank the university management for involving us in the project and also thank the SBI Foundation for funding it."

The forest also harbours a wide species of birds. "This is a noble cause that the university has taken up. Till recently, the land was barren and full of weed. But now it is home to several bird species. This area is near the road transport office and people come here for their morning walk," says Pradeep Hadimani, a green activist from Gadag.

Siddalingesh, coordinator, SBI Foundation, says, "We started this unique forestry initiative to promote afforestation. It envisages rejuvenation, and protection of existing forests through the plantation of local species for restoring ecological balance."

Vice-Chancellor Prof Vishnukant Chatpalli says, "Gandhian and Vivekananda thoughts represent the university. We wanted to contribute to society. We have been planting fruit-bearing and other species of trees with the assistance of foresters. To enhance the green cover, we have signed an agreement with the SBI Foundation and they will maintain it. We have named it Jana Vana and it is a public participation programme which is useful for all of us who live near this area and this forest is one of the important factors for the good quality air here."

IISc OPEN DAY: A DAY WELL SPENT FOR STUDENTS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THOUSANDS thronged the Indian Institute of Science (IISc) on Saturday eager to learn about the premier institution and its various departments on the much-awaited IISc Open Day.

As many as 30,000 people, including families and droves of school students, used the opportunity to participate in several activities and listen to experts on several topics in a fun and fulfilling way.

"This is my first visit to IISc and it was fun. I was exposed to new things and it helped a lot, especially with experiments being conducted around the campus. It helped give me a better perspective on what I am studying," a Class 10 student of PKS School, Sampigehalli, told TNIE.

Teachers also had a field day ferrying students from stall to stall within the large sprawling campus. All departments and centres had set up stalls near their respective buildings, displaying their most prominent research works. This included displays and live demos from various departments, like the mechanical engineering department's water-jet demo, as well as various talks, experiments and competitions, including a drone competition.

"It was an eye-opener for students as they were exposed to different subjects like physics, chemistry and biology. For example, they are currently studying a chapter on the human brain, so coming here and talking to people from the Centre of Neuroscience helped them relate to their classes more," a teacher told TNIE.

The Open Day seemed to stoke the need for scientific knowledge over everything else, as children as young as 5 were seen looking at preserved specimens of animals used as a way to educate them on infectious diseases. "So far, none of the children have been scared to see specimens of rats, mice or even cattle. On the contrary, they are very curious to understand how diseases affect the lungs, or other organs of an animal, so the response has been very good," said Dr Shastry, a veterinarian and one of the facility managers at IISc.

Why is govt not acting against unauthorised schools: Parents

DONNA EVA @Bengaluru

A day after School Education and Literacy Minister BC Nagesh on Friday announced that a list of unauthorised schools will be published by the department after the board examinations, parents have hit out at the government for failing to take adequate action against unauthorised schools in the state. The parents have questioned why the department has not taken immediate action against the schools and shut them down.

"They have asked us to make sure that the schools are authorised, but there has been no move towards filing FIRs against these schools and closing them down. That is the responsibility of the Education Department, which they have completely failed at," said PE Chidanand, a parent and one of the members of the Voice of Parents, Karnataka, (VOPK). Blaming politics, he said the department often springs into action only at the start of the year, but does not take any steps towards shutting down the schools. "If it is the start of the academic year, the department should be working towards preventing admissions in unauthorised schools instead of advising parents to find out whether the schools are authorised," he said.

Mohammed Shakeel, president of VOPK, said, "The government provides NOC and the recognition, but after that there is no regulation of the schools by the government to ensure they are functioning properly. The government is sitting on a list of unauthorised schools, instead of making them public."

Wage increase of 15% just an eye-wash: NHM contract staff

AKNISREE KARTHIK @ Bengaluru

WHILE the state government has announced a salary hike of up to 15% to the National Health Mission (NHM) insourced employees who have been on an indefinite protest for the last 20 days, the employees said they will not get back to work. They said their protest will continue till all the contract employees are regularised. The indefinite protest has already affected the delivery of more than 50 national programmes.

Speaking to TNSE, Padma Rekha, committee member, Karnataka Rajya NHM Insource Employees Association, said "There are nearly 30,000 NHM employees right from doctors and surgeons till Group D workers, like technicians. We want to be regularised and we will not return to our work till this demand is met."

She said NHM workers take care of more than 50 national health programmes, like the mental health programme, Rastriya Bala Swastya Karyakram, Rastriya Kishor Swastya Karyakram, National Tuberculosis Eradication Program and are working relentlessly at the non-communicable disease clinics and urban health centres, including the recently launched Namma Clinics. All these services have been affected putting citizens into trouble, she said and requested the government regularise them at the earliest.

On the state government's order passed on Saturday announcing a wage hike up to 15 per cent for the NHM staff, Padma Rekha who works as a social worker under the District Health Mission said, "Seven years have passed since I joined the service. While my basic salary is a mere Rs 25,000 without any benefits, a state government employee is drawing nearly Rs 60,000 along with TA, DA, insurance and other benefits. There are employees whose experience has crossed a decade, while their salaries have remained around Rs 10,000 to Rs 15,000. The hike ordered by the government is negligible for such workers."

The protesting members said NHM workers have been regularised in Manipur and Rajasthan and the process is going on in other four states, including Telangana.

The government order has clarified that the hike will be applicable only for in-source /contractual employees taken under NHM and shall not be applicable to outsourced employees.

Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar said the government is striving for the benefit of the employees and added that the government has fulfilled the long-pending wage hike demand by ordering the 15 per cent salary hike for the contract employees working under NHM.

HC upholds constitutional validity of Homoeopathy Act

COURT DIRECTIVES

Guidelines framed by the Ministry of Ayush, dated October 18, 2022, and the regulations framed by the National Commission for Homeopathy, dated December 6, 2022, do not apply to the process of admission to the BHMS undergraduate course which has already commenced on July 19, 2022

Quashing the government order, dated December 13, 2022, making the 2022 regulations apply in respect of admission to the BHMS UG course for the academic session 2022-23, the court permitted the petitioners to admit students on remaining vacant seats on the basis of academic eligibility for the academic session 2022-23 only.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court upheld the constitutional validity of the provisions of the National Commission for Homoeopathy Act, 2020 and the National Commission for Homoeopathy (Homeopathy Degree Course-BHMS) Regulation, 2022.

A division bench of Justice Alok Aradhe and Justice Vijay Kumar A Patil passed the order upholding Sections 3, 4, 10, 12, 14, 43, 44 and 55(2)(m) of the Act while disposing of the petition filed by Karnataka State Private Homeopathic Medical College Managements Association and four others.

The court said that even in the absence of a specific provision, it has been held that the power to regulate the standard of education casts a corresponding duty to conduct an all-India examination. However, Section 14 of the 2020 Act expressly prescribes NEET for admission to undergraduate in homoeopathy in all medical institutions. Hence, the legislature in its wisdom has taken a view that merit-based admission can be ensured to a common entrance test, namely NEET, the court observed.

The court also said that the prescription of NEET fulfils the twin requirements of proportionality and reasonableness. The objective of the prescription of the test is to ensure that qualified students are admitted to the BHMS course, which is in the interest of the patients whom they treat. Merely because the number of seats are more and the candidates are less, the requirement of merit-based admission cannot be dispensed with and the private educational institution cannot have an unfettered right to admit the students regardless of their merit, the court noted.

"In the instant case, by enacting Section 14, the right of the petitioners to admit students in educational institutions has merely been regulated and the same does not amount to a violation of the rights of the petitioners under the constitution or any other enactment. Therefore, the principle of the doctrine of non-retrogression is not applicable to the facts of the case. In view of the aforesaid enunciation of law by the Supreme Court, it is held that Section 14 of the Act neither suffers from manifest arbitrariness nor the test of proportionality nor is in violation of the doctrine of non-retrogression", the court said.

Residents launch surprise stir against Sankey project

Continuing to mount pressure on BBMP and the state government to withdraw the Sankey project, residents from Malleswaram and its surroundings along with other activists launched a sudden poster protest on Sankey Road in the morning. The homes have banner saying 'Save Sankey', and children created the posters. The residents said that the project would involve felling many trees as well as more than 400 paper mulberry trees which are home to hundreds of birds. Moreover, the recent BBMP budget has allocated funds to convert Sankey Tank into a 'Tourist Plaza', which has also irked the residents. "This would further destroy Sankey Tank's ecology, and lead to rise in temperatures from the concrete work and structures built on it. The NGT ruling clearly states that there needs to be a boundary of 30m between the lake edge and any construction. This has been violated many times," said Kimsuka, a Sadashiva Nagar resident. "We are disturbed by the news that BBMP wants to make it a tourist destination. We will not allow for this to happen," said Preeti Sunderajan, Citizens of Sankey.

Former chief minister BS Yediyurappa said the BJP would form the next government in the state as the atmosphere is conducive for the party to win at least 140 seats in the upcoming assembly elections. He said most of the ongoing campaigns of the BJP evoked a tremendous response and people were attending the rallies in large numbers

‘SEVERE STAFF CRUNCH AFFECTING HEALTH OF STATE GOVT EMPLOYEES’

VINOD KUMAR.T

EXPRESS Dialogues

TEAM TNIE

THE state government recently announced a 17% hike in the basic salary of government employees after they went on strike. Karnataka State Government Employees Association president CS Shadakshari, who spearheaded the protest, said state government employees in Karnataka are getting lesser salary compared to their counterparts in other states and the Central government. During an interaction with TNSE editors and reporters, Shadakshari said there is a severe shortage of staff as vacancies have not been filled, and it is affecting the health of workers. Excerpts.

What was the need to protest and bring the government to a standstill?

We are getting a lesser salary compared to employees in other states and the Central government. We approached the state government, but they ignored our pleas. With no other option, we had to protest. The employees were happy after the government announced a 17% hike on their basic salaries, though we expected 25 per cent. We called off the strike as SSLC and PUC examinations would have been affected and medical services would have been hit if we had continued. We agreed for the negotiation as we too have families and their interests too are important.

Was the government not aware of the protest plan?

The government got to know only on February 28, that too after getting an intelligence report. Even the chief minister was out of station for two days. He reached Bengaluru on February 28 and the first meeting he held was ours at 9.30 pm. He was positive. He said if the government and government employees clash, public services including healthcare would get disrupted and revenue collection would be hit, and it had to be sorted out amicably. After that meeting, we started another round of meetings with our office-bearers. The next day (March 1), at 11.30 am, a government order was issued with a 17% interim hike.

What is the vacancy in state government posts? What is the difference in salary compared to other states and central governments?

There is a staff shortage of 39% in the Karnataka government sector, which works out to around 2.55 lakh posts. Employees in Karnataka get the lowest salary compared to other states across the country. Our salaries are 14% lesser than Union government employees, while Kerala government employees get higher salaries than central government employees. Our demand is to reduce this difference.

Why is the association demanding a five-day work week?

We have been telling the state government to make us work one hour extra every day and give us offs on Saturdays and Sundays, like with the Central government. There are many advantages – it will reduce traffic on weekends, reduce fuel on government cars, reduce power usage for one day and more. This will also save revenue.

Why the demand for the Old Pension scheme?

The Central government implemented the Contributory Pension Scheme, where employees and employers contribute towards pension. The deposited funds will be invested in the share market and the profit from shares will be paid as pension. That was when the Centre decided not to pay pensions. Many states adopted it too and Karnataka did it in 2006. With this, people who joined work before 2006 get the old pension, while those who joined after 2006 would get the pension under the new scheme. There is a huge gap between pension benefits of those who joined before and after 2006. That's when the association started raising its voice. Jharkhand, Chhattisgarh, Punjab, Himachal Pradesh and Rajasthan have rolled back the new scheme. We are also demanding it, but the government did not listen. Only after we staged a protest, they have now constituted a committee, which will submit a report within two months. We are also sending our team to check. Our stand is that NPS should be rolled back to OPS.

Your views on the CM's announcement on filling up one lakh vacancies in one year?

Shortage of staff and resulting work pressure are affecting the health of workers. For instance, a panchayat development officer is looking after three gram panchayats. With the staff shortage, it is difficult to provide all services effectively and they are not machines. The scenario is the same in the revenue department and it is leading to health problems like blood pressure and diabetes. The government is trying to manage with the existing staff, but we are requesting it to appoint the field staff. The recruitment process has started. There are hurdles for the government, including expenditure and cases in courts. We also appeal to the courts to dispose of these cases at the earliest. Amid this, the CM has announced that a comprehensive medical scheme for all government employees and their family members will be implemented in the next few days. It has come as a relief as it will cover all diseases. The treatment can be availed at any hospital in the state without paying a rupee.

There are complaints that staff is not available during working hours and files are kept pending …

Several services have been brought under the ‘Sakala’ system and there is no scope for the delay as employees responsible for the delay will have to cough up a penalty. There is also pressure from senior officers to clear files. As most of the services are online, government employees continue to work from home even after office hours. The number of pending files is available at your fingertips today and there is no question of pendency. Even students question teachers if portions are not completed. Also, communication is so fast that people directly contact senior officers or elected representatives through phone or social media. The mindset of government employees is tuned to clear the files sooner instead of getting pulled up by senior officers. If you observe, many working at Vidhana Soudha carry a bag while leaving the office. There will be no cash in it (chuckles) but files. After going home, they spend one to two hours on them. Also, many work till 8.30-9 pm every day at Vidhana Soudha. Pressure is so high nowadays.

There is the allegation of rampant corruption in government offices. What are your plans to change this image?

I wouldn't say there is no corruption at all. Corruption is omnipresent. But it is not correct to blame the entire fraternity for the mistakes of a few. The recent allegation of ‘40 per cent commission’ is politicised and I would like to clarify that government employees have no role in it. I would like to ask the public why you pay the bribe. There are so many facilities like Sakala, RTI and others and they should make use of them. If your work is not done, approach senior officers, elected representatives or ministers. You can also file a complaint with the Lokayukta. We are also creating awareness among government employees. I have conducted over a thousand meetings and have educated employees that we government workers have respect in society and guaranteed salary and we must work honestly. They are also told about the consequences of getting caught in corruption cases, the humiliation their family members will have to face and they may lose their job and retirement benefits. I have also contacted Lokayukta Justice BS Patil to take part in our meetings and educate government employees.

There will be periodic training in private companies to update the skills of employees. Don't you think it is required for the government staff?

As there is a 39 per cent vacancy, whoever gets an appointment order will be put on the job from the very first day. There is no training at all except for the police department. There is a rule that recruits must be given two months of foundation training, but it is not happening. There are District Training Institutes, but no principals and lectures. We have requested the government to upgrade them on the lines of the Administrative Training Institute in Mysuru and give two months of residential training for all recruits. I hope that the government will soon decide on this.

The government is outsourcing certain works. Is this not leading to corruption?

The government has outsourced some jobs such as drivers, data entry operators and Group D workers as outsourcing is economically viable. Unfortunately, the companies that are awarded tender and supply manpower are exploiting the workers by not paying them benefits like ESI, EPF and accident relief. Though there is a clear order from the Supreme Court that every 11 months, the contract should be renewed and there is no scope for regularising contract workers, some companies are promising workers that they would get a permanent job with the government and are extorting money from them.

It appears that there is a conflict between your association and the Karnataka Government Secretariat Employees' Association which demanded a 40% hike?

In fact, our demand was also a 40% increase, but Pay Commission officials said it will take at least 45 days to submit the interim report. As the election model code of conduct would come into effect in another 30 days, the government would not be in a position to do anything and the entire process would be delayed. We decided to settle for interim relief. We demanded a minimum of 25% hike, while the finance secretary said the government can't give beyond 7%. There were several rounds of discussion and the CM agreed to 15% and we demanded 20%. Respecting the CM's word, we settled for 17%. We have 200 affiliated associations and it was a unanimous decision. Even the Secretariat Employees' Association agreed to it. Also, the current president (P Gurumurthy) of that association is not elected and is in charge of the association as elections have not been held for the last six years.

Why did you time the strike in 2023 when the pay commission should have been set up in 2022 itself?

We held meetings with the chief minister then and he had promised to constitute the commission and we believed it would happen as B S Yediyurappa used to respond to our appeals without us struggling to get it done. Bommai too had promised us just fifteen days before the budget, but to our shock it was not mentioned in the budget that forced us to go on the strike. Yediyurappa has also asked Bommai to help us. Now, pay commission has been set up from July 2022.

Even during Covid, government employees got their salaries. Should they not be thankful?

You are right, but Covid hit in 2021. In 2022, the government should have set up a commission. In 2021, we should have started protesting, but due to Covid we did not. Only after the state's financial situation improved did we launch the struggle.

Your views on IAS and IPS officers sparring in the open?

That is condemnable. It is not a good message to society. Family issues coming to public and its glorification in the media is not good. It has not at all had an impact on our employees as they know the background of the top brass.

The image of government offices has not changed as the behaviour of staff has remained the same. What steps are you going to take to change this?

There is a government order that in any public office, the public should be treated with respect. We suggested setting up grievances centres, but 39 per cent of the vacancies remained unfilled. When it comes to employees, they are also human and not machines. Their work has become hectic as they have to attend the officers' meetings and the courts as there are 10,000 cases pending before them, including at KAT. The applications with regard to Right to Information also have to be addressed. Some RTI activists have turned into a menace as they have made it a profession to seek information with 100 applications. These are our administrative problems. But we are for the reforms and the legislature should take a decision. For efficient employees, incentives should be given. But we cannot implement it like in the private sector as there are many hurdles. But if the government shows its will, we are ready to work on par with corporate sector employees. We will educate our employees.

Some activists forced their way into government offices...

Let them go to offices. They have the liberty, but shooting videos of employees, especially women and going live on social media is not acceptable. When they did it, it created a controversy and we sought a government order. Shooting a video is irritating for the women as it is an infringement of their privacy as they have private lives like any other individual.

There is an allegation that you have Lokayukta cases against you and that is the reason you are soft on the government?

If proven, I will not only quit from my president's post, but also resign from my job. There were ten cases filed against me before ACB and Lokayukta in the last 12 years but all the files were closed without even the issue of summons as there was no evidence against me. I don't have a car, bungalow or site in my name. Since I joined as an employee in 1999, I have been honest. The bungalow I was given belongs to the government.

What steps have you taken to solve the women employees' problems?

Women consultation Centres have been suggested and we have also sought the pay commission to recommend to the government for more facilities for women and their safety. Dropping those who work overtime has also been suggested.

Any chances of you joining politics?

I am not interested at all. For MLAs their jurisdiction is just 5 km and for me it's 1,000 km as the state employees' president. I have a lot of space to work.

Shivaji statue: After Bommai, Hebbalkar to unveil it again

ENS @ Belagavi

MERELY three days after CM Basavaraj Bommai unveiled the statue of Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj, Congress MLA from Belagavi Rural Laxmi Hebbalkar is set to hold a grand ceremony at Rajhunsgad near Belagavi to unveil the statue again. Bommai has been invited by Hebbalkar for the unveiling on March 5.

Massive preparations began on Saturday at Rajhunsgad for the event on Sunday. The guest-list includes AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge, CLP leader Siddaramaiah, KPCC president DK Shivakumar, former home minister of Maharashtra Satej Patil, Marathi actor and MP from Maharashtra Dr Amol Kole, Latur MLA Dheeraj Deshmukh, actor Ritesh Deshmukh, and other eminent personalities.

Hebbalkar's brother, MLC Chennaraj Hattiholi, and her son Mrinal performed a puja at a temple at Rajhunsgad on Saturday ahead of the event on Sunday. A series of cultural programmes have also been planned for the ceremony.

VOTE FOR NEW ENGINE & NOT OLD DOUBLE ENGINE: KEJRIWAL

Punjab CM Bhagwant Mann shows something on his phone to his Delhi counterpart Arvind Kejriwal during a convention in Davanagere on Saturday | EXPRESS

G SUBHASH CHANDRA @Davanagere

DELHI Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal on Saturday called upon the people of Karnataka to vote for a “new engine” instead of the “old double engine”.

Addressing party workers at an oath-taking ceremony in Davangere, Kejriwal said, “The double engine government has doubled corruption. PM Narendra Modi, who talked about 20 per cent corruption during the 2018 state Assembly polls has given 40 per cent commission government. It may increase to 60 per cent during next elections and subsequently to 100 per cent. Hence it is better to elect a government led by AAP.” He promised that if AAP came to power in the state, it would provide free quality education, healthcare, jobs and Rs 3,000 allowance to unemployed youth, and waive of agricultural loans.

Mentioning BJP MLA Madal Virupakshappa's alleged involvement in a scam, Kejriwal said even though Rs 8 crore cash has been seized from the residence and office of the MLA's son, the double engine government is silent. Terming it “double standards”, he said AAP leaders Satyendra Jain and Manish Sisodia have been put behind bars by CBI, IT and ED despite zero cash being found.

He alleged that corruption has been rampant in the state since two years. He said despite the president of contractors' association writing letters to PM Modi and his office, no action has been initiated. Instead, the whistleblower Kempanna (82) who lodged a complaint was himself sent behind bars for making the allegations and writing letters.

Talking about Bengaluru, the AAP leader highlighted the issue of potholes and said that though the state government has pumped in Rs 20,000 crore to fill them, very few potholes have been filled in the last four years.

Mann bats for Kejriwal as PM to end corruption

Davanagere: Punjab CM Bhagwant Mann appealed to the people of Karnataka to oust the BJP government to eliminate corruption that has pervaded every sector of the administration. Batting for his Delhi counterpart, Arvind Kejriwal's as prime minister, Mann said only Kejriwal can resurrect the country which is incurring losses. “Being a former IRS officer, he knows where corruption takes place, and can plug pilferage of taxes. He is the only man who can root out corruption,” he said, and described how government schools in Delhi have been transformed under the AAP government.

Cong corners CM on graft, demands his resignation

WITH crores of unaccounted cash seized from Channagiri MLA Madal Virupakshappa's residence and his son Prashanth trapped while accepting a bribe, Congress on Saturday mounted an attack on the state government, and demanded the resignation of CM Basavaraj Bommai.

They also demanded that the MLA, who is reportedly absconding, should be arrested. Mocking the government over allegation of 40 per cent commission, CLP leader Siddaramaiah carried a suitcase to highlight corruption in the administration.

The rally was led by party state in-charge Randeep Singh Surjewala. Congress leaders Ramalinga Reddy, Priyank Kharge, Saleem Ahmed and others took part, and laid siege to the chief minister's official residence. They were detained by the police, and released later.

Accusing PM Narendra Modi and Union Home Minister Amit Shah of ignoring alleged corruption in the Bommai government, Surjewala pointed out that Modi had visited the state eight times but remained silent on the allegations of 40 per cent commission by Contractors' Association president Kempanna.

“Shah and Bommai should be ashamed of spreading the foul smell of corruption even in Mysore sandals and soap. BJP leaders are trying to defend Madal's son, calling it a mistake. What about Rs 8 crore in unaccounted cash? Is that a mistake too?” alleged Surjewala. “BJP has realised this time, they cannot win elections on caste and religion. To safeguard his dignity, Bommai should ensure that the MLA is arrested, and resign as chief minister taking moral responsibility,” said Siddaramaiah.

‘MLA gave nod to inflated tenders, orders’

UNION president, GR Shivashakar said the government must probe the role of members of the purchasing committee including the MD. He also alleged that there was misappropriation in the Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) funds.

Speaking to TNSE, Shivashankar alleged that MLA Virupakshappa gave clearance to tenders and purchase orders with inflated prices to make as much money as possible before the elections. “The approvals are given for FY 2023-24 and the irregularities are to the tune of Rs 300 crore. There should be investigation against the companies which have bagged the contracts,” he alleged.

Meanwhile, the Lokayukta police are likely to issue a notice to Virupakshappa, who is said to have gone incommunicado. Sources said that notices will be sent to his office and residence asking him to appear before the investigation officer. The investigating team has also sought details of the bank accounts of the MLA, his son Prashanth who is arrested, and other family members.

AFTER WORKERS FLEE, BIHAR TEAM TO VISIT TN

RAMASHANKAR @Patna

AMID reports of Tamil Nadu Chief Minister MK Stalin's conversation with his counterpart in Bihar, a four-member special team left for the southern state to assist those Bihar's migrant workers who want to return home in the wake of alleged attack on them.

The Tamil Nadu police chief, however, denied any such attack in that state.

Highly placed sources in Bihar secretariat said that Stalin had a telephonic conversation with Bihar CM Nitish Kumar. What transpired between the two CMs could not be immediately known but it is expected that the two discussed reports of attack on workers from Bihar in Tamil Nadu.

On Friday, Nitish constituted a four-member team that will travel to Tamil Nadu to take stock of the situation. "As soon as I got to know through through newspapers, I directed the officials to look into the matter. They spoke to officials of the Tamil Nadu government and reported that a special team should be sent from here," Nitish said. D Balamurugan, Secretary, rural development department, Shree Alok, Special Secretary, labour resources department and senior IPS officer P Kannan are part of the visiting team who will submit a report to Nitish.

A day earlier, a BJP delegation led by Leader of Opposition in Bihar Assembly Vijay Kumar Sinha met Nitish and sought his intervention into alleged atrocities against Bihar migrant workers in Tamil Nadu. Tamil Nadu DGP Sylendra Babu claimed that the videos circulated on social media were fake. The DGP had also warned of stern action against those involved in circulating fake and doctored videos on social media to spread hatred in the society and create confusion between the two state governments.

TN deploys officials to instill confidence in migrants

CHENNAI: The Tamil Nadu government is countering a disinformation campaign launched by miscreants on social media alleging attacks on north Indian migrant workers, by sending teams to visit various sites across the state to instill in them. Sources told TNSE the disinformation campaign was an attempt by miscreants to discredit Tamil Nadu's image as a peaceful society and a successful investment hub.

RTC union calls for strike from March 24

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THOUSANDS of passengers are likely to be affected as the Karnataka road transport employees, who are on an indefinite protest at Bengaluru's Freedom Park demanding a wage hike, have called for an indefinite strike from March 24 onwards.

The strike that will affect the services of BMTC, KSRTC, NWKRTC, KKRTC is called by one of the unions — Karnataka Road Transport Employees' Union — after the government did not respond to their demand of a wage hike.

Addressing the media here on Saturday, R Chandrashekhar president of the league said, "We have done all we could to get the attention of the government towards the problems of transport workers. Our employees have not got a wage hike since 2016. During the strike in 2021, the then transport minister Laxman Savadi gave a written assurance that the wages will be revised and said that all our other demands will be fulfilled. But all the promises have remained on paper and our employees are suffering."

Members of the league said their intention is not to put passengers into trouble. They said that they were called for a meeting chaired by KSRTC MD Anbu Kumar on March 1 and nothing fruitful emerged out of the meet forcing them to call for the strike.

"We will issue a 14-day strike notice to labour commissioner on Monday. Transport workers will not report to duty from March 24 onwards. We will not budge till our wage hike and other demands that include taking back of dismissed employees who took part in 2021 protest, withdrawal of FIRs filed against the employees and others are met," said Chandrashekar.

When asked that there is no unity among the four transport workers and unions, Chandrashekar maintained that the indefinite protest from March 24 will prove that the employees are united and they will win this time.

Manifesto after getting suggestions from 1cr people: Sudhakar

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

BJP manifesto committee convenor and Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar said here on Saturday that the committee will reach out to around one crore people seeking their suggestions before drawing up the manifesto for the Assembly elections. He said the manifesto will be sacred like the Gita as it will not contain false or impractical promises to cheat people for the sake of votes.

At an interaction with the education and skill development sector organised as part of the party's efforts to collect their suggestions, Sudhakar said, "We could have framed the manifesto between four walls, but did not do so. We want to improve the lives of people by bringing in reforms, changing rules, cutting red-tapism and taking special initiatives. We will take all your suggestions seriously," he assured the participants.

Participants at the BJP's interaction with stakeholders in education and skill development sector drop their suggestions for the party's manifesto on Saturday

Co-convenor of the committee and Primary and Secondary Education Minister BC Nagesh asked the stakeholders to help BJP retain power as that will help the party implement the National Education Policy (NEP) in true spirit. "BJP is the only party that can bring in changes in the education system, like the initiative by the then Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee who had implemented Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan to develop infrastructure in government schools on par with private ones," he remarked.

When participants pointed to the lack of physical education teachers and playgrounds in government schools, Nagesh said NEP will have a remedy for all these issues and every nuance of the education system.

"We have been running 13,000 schools that have less than ten children and 8,000 to 10,000 schools with less than 25 children. Recruiting physical education teachers will not be possible. When we implement NEP, model schools proposed will have teachers for all streams," he said.

Higher education and IT/BT minister Dr C N Ashwathnarayan also spoke.

Meanwhile, the party launched the campaign to collect suggestions from both physical and digital platforms. Many participants dropped their suggestion into the boxes placed at the venue. People can given suggestions even by scanning a QR code, the organisers informed.

Major fire breaks out on Chamundi Hills, Bandipur

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

A major fire erupted atop Chamundi Hills near the Nandi Statue side on Saturday afternoon.

According to firemen, dry grass atop the hills caught fire in the afternoon. Residents of Chamundi Hills, who noticed the fire, alerted the fire station. Ten fire tenders from various fire stations along with forest staff rushed to the spot and took up the operation to douse the massive fire which had spread to nearly 10 acres on the hills.

Firemen took more than four hours to douse the flames.

8 acres of forest burnt

Fire also erupted at Himavad Gopalaswamy Betta coming under Bandipur Tiger Reserve in Gundlupet on Saturday afternoon. Foresters said at around 12.30 pm, fire was noticed at Gowrikallu Gudda forest area. After fighting for nearly two hours, the forest staff doused the fire at around 2.30 pm.

As per the estimate, around 8 acres of forest land was destroyed in the fire.

Keezhadi museum set to open today

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

TAMIL NADU Chief Minister MK Stalin is set to inaugurate a new world-class museum at Keezhadi in Sivaganga district, Tamil Nadu, on March 5. The museum, which has been established at a cost of Rs 18.8 crore, will display the artefacts and antiquities unearthed during the eight rounds of excavations carried out in Keezhadi and its surrounding areas, including Konthagai, Manalur, and Agaram in the district.

Many inscribed potsherds, many of which are in Tamili (Tamil-Brahmi) script, have been inearthed from Keezhadi, spread over an area of more than 110 acres. The finds clearly indicate a high level of literacy in contemporary society, which is believed to have thrived around the 6th century BCE.

The excavations have also uncovered a range of artefacts, including structural activities like brick structures, terracotta ring wells, fallen roofing tiles with double holes, and deeply finger-pressed grooves to drain rainwater. Other finds include golden ornaments, copper objects, iron implements, terracotta gamesmen, hopscotches, ear ornaments, spindle whorls, figurines, and beads made of terracotta, glass, and semi-precious stones like agate, carnelian, and crystal. These antiquities provide a fascinating glimpse into the cultural richness of ancient Tamil civilization.

Kochi goes breathless as waste dumpyard continues to burn

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kochi

KOCHI was left breathless on Saturday morning when the smoke billowing from a waste yard fire enveloped the entire city. The toxic smoke from the waste dumpyard at Brahmapuram — where a major fire broke out two days ago — spread to a radius of more than 10 km, causing breathing difficulties for city residents and reduced visibility on the roads. Asthma patients and senior citizens were the most affected, with many seeking medication. People who ventured out for morning walks complained of a burning sensation in the eyes and breathing difficulties. Many were forced to stay indoors the entire day. Though the fire that broke out on Thursday evening was brought under control by Saturday evening, the smoke still continues to billow from the garbage yard.

Considering the prevailing situation, District Collector Renu Raj urged the public to stay indoors on Sunday. The Kerala Fire and Rescue Services had deployed over 100 personnel along with 16 fire tenders to douse the blaze. Besides, 20 units of fire fighters from BPCL, FACT and the Navy joined the operation. This apart six earth movers were also deployed.

As the efforts to control the blaze failed, the district administration sought the help of the Navy on Friday evening. On Saturday morning, the Navy deployed an advanced light helicopter which conducted an aerial recce to assess the extent of the fire. A helicopter with a Large Area of Aerial Liquid Dispersion Equipment was deployed to drop water on the affected areas. Over 5,000 litres of water was sprayed in the active fire zones, which helped bring the fire under control. Though the fire has been doused, smoke continues to emanate from the yard. "The pollution levels in the air, which was 'hazardous' till early Saturday morning, moderated by afternoon. It will take at least a week for the city's air quality to improve," said Baburajan PK, Chief Environmental Engineer of the Pollution Control Board.

Not wrong to say next PM is MK Stalin: Congress MP Karti

MADURAI: Sivaganga Member of Parliament Karti P Chidambaram said the BJP Government is trying to rewrite the history of the nation. MP P Chidambaram came to Madurai to attend an event on Saturday. He said the election results of northeast states would not create any impact in other states as the alliance for the upcoming Lok Sabha elections are yet to be finalised. It would be impossible to predict the winning party now. "The victory in the Erode East Constituency by-election was not a surprise as it was predetermined. I had already said during the election campaign that our candidate EVKS Elangovan would win with a difference of over 50,000 votes," he said. He further stated that a Congress-led alliance will be the only capable means to defeat the BJP in the upcoming polls.

INVESTOR MEETS: BETWEEN PROMISE AND REALITIES

THE THIRD EYE

SHANKKAR AIYAR
Author of The Gated Republic, Aadhaar: A Biometric History of India's 12 Digit Revolution, and Accidental India
shankkar.aiyar@gmail.com

THE phenomenon of state investment summits is fairly recent, a post-1991 element of India's political economy. The cynical view has been that investor summits tend to be long on promise and sketchy on performance. About two decades back, after an investor summit in Maharashtra, this columnist asked the then chief minister what was the rate of conversion of MoUs to actual investment. With his tongue firmly placed in his cheek, he quipped, "Just in the power sector, if all the MoUs fructify, Maharashtra would generate as much or more power than all of India put together." Of course, that didn't happen.

Investment summits have since then acquired the air of serious business, are seen as an important constituent of the political narrative – particularly after a decade of high visibility Vibrant Gujarat meets. There is inventiveness in alliterative branding – Advantage Assam, Progressive Punjab, Magnetic Maharashtra, Investgarh Chhattisgarh, Resurgent Rajasthan, Advantage Andhra Pradesh, et al– and are increasingly competitive. Many use the tag "global". State investment summits are increasingly competitive and are now called global. Often officials travel abroad to connect with potential investors. The event has the countenance of rock concerts, the must attend list includes Indian billionaires, transnationals and, of course, cabinet ministers.

In the past year, the volume of MoUs signed has gone up – and the value of the MoUs signed, stated investment intent, has migrated from thousand of crores to lakh crores. In February 2023, Uttar Pradesh, India's largest and most populous state concluded the global investor summit. The UP government declared that 18,000 agreements promising an investment of ₹32.92 lakh crore or $400 billion had been signed. The promised intent is more than the GSDP of Uttar Pradesh.

This week, Andhra Pradesh declared receiving 340 proposals for investment of roughly $153 billion or ₹13 lakh crore which is just under the GSDP of the state. Karnataka declared MoUs with an investment of over ₹9.8 lakh crore had been signed.

Last year saw other states announce signing of MoUs at their respective investment summits. In April 2022, at the beginning of fiscal 2022, the north-eastern state of Assam created waves as it attracted investment intent worth over ₹87,000 crore. In July 2022, Tamil Nadu declared 60 MoUs worth ₹1.25 lakh crore were signed. In August, Rajasthan announced MoUs worth investments of ₹70,000 crore., Maharashtra inducted offsite innovation and signed MoUs worth ₹1.37 lakh crore at the WEF.

The parade of MoUs, to say the least, signals a lift off to gross fixed capital formation across India. The big question though is how many of the pronouncements translate into investments on the ground. The history of converting intent into investment is scarcely inspiring. This is reflected in the data point on India's gross fixed capital formation (GFCF) as a percentage of the GDP. GFCF captures investments by the government and private sector. For nearly five years, this has languished in the twenties. This has inched up from under 30 per cent to 31.5 per cent and may touch 33 plus per cent. However, the improvement has largely been due to increase in capital expenditure by governments. Promises by private entities have flattered and disappointed.

The past need not be a prologue for the future. The declarations made at investor summits of 2022 and thus far in 2023 suggest that MoUs promising investments of ₹60 lakh crore have been inked. For sure, not all promises will come through but embedded in the landscape of MoUs is the potential for engineering growth. India's GDP is effectively the sum of the growth produced by the states. The critical factors of productivity – land and labour – fall under the jurisdiction of the states and a large part of the regulatory cholesterol, the permission raj, is located in the states. The gap between promise and performance is defined by the sloth that has stalled reforms.

The construct of economic development rests on necessary and sufficient conditions. Summits are necessary to woo investors but are not sufficient to translate intent into investment. Governance demands audit of data and what gets measured can be improved. It would be a good idea for the Niti Aayog to undertake a study of the past decade of investor summits to arrive at the conversion rate of investment intent. As the newly appointed CEO of Niti Aayog, B V R Subrahmanyam, formerly the commerce secretary, is well placed to create a ranking of states and a database on the efficacy of state investor summits.

Context is critical to appreciate the imperative. Rising cost of capital and slowing growth will constrain consumption and portfolio flows. This makes boosting investment all the more critical. On the manufacturing front, there is a marked shift of the supply chain away from China – studies show as much as a quarter of global goods exports, or $4.5 trillion, could shift to new domains. On the services side, where India has a historic advantage, companies are moving both process and knowledge services to cost effective geographies. Harnessing this opportunity calls for focus on regulatory process and legislation.

State governments need to rise above showboating, about MoUs and promissory intent and find ways to clean up their act to enable investment-led growth. India is at the intersection of challenges which are opportunities.

PAST & PRESENT TAINT KEEPS OPPOSITION DIVIDED

POWER & POLITICS

UNITY in politics is about rationalising opinions and ideologies. Hence adversities unite adversaries. Such a confederacy is often birthed by the maxim that 'my enemy's enemy is my friend'. But this isn't the Indian opposition's praxis. Though their leaders across regions and viewpoints are being hunted by central investigative agencies and jailed over the past eight years, no sign of them being a common front is visible. Last week, when the CBI arrested AAP honcho Manish Sisodia for allegedly dodgy dealings in the Delhi government's excise policy scam, no prominent party or leader went beyond the customary press statement. Some even praised the arrest. There was no collaborative chorus of condemnation from non-BJP opposition parties when the dreaded ED swooped down on middle-level leaders and top skippers of TMC, BRS, Shiv Sena, TRS, et al. Ironically, Opposition parties rule almost half the states and have over 200 seats in Parliament. Emboldened by the divided opposition, the agencies have upped the ante to name and shame tainted leaders by digging up their distant past and unpleasant present, which will make them electoral liabilities and weaken the opposition. Hardly a day passes without the ED and CBI descending on the offices of various corporate houses and political activists even remotely connected with anyone who challenges the BJP anywhere in India without a squeak from non-saffron sections. And for the voters, it is business as usual. Even at the festivities held last week to celebrate Tamilnadu Chief Minister M K Stalin and attended by leaders of half a dozen parties, Sisodia didn't get any empathy. Earlier, the 3500 kilometre long Bharat Jodo Yatra undertaken by Rahul Gandhi was royally ignored by many prominent opposition leaders.

According to a published report, over 95 per cent of leaders arrested in the past nine years are from the opposition. Even if it rattled them, this wasn't enough to make them bury their individual ambitions to counter the ruling party by hitting the streets. They stand divided to destroy one another. In contrast, during the Emergency, the entire non-Congress opposition dumped their ideological predilections and set aside enmities to defenestrate the powerful prime minister Indira Gandhi and her party from the halls of absolute power. Like the BJP now, the Congress then ruled more than half the states, enjoyed a two thirds majority in Parliament and had a pliable bureaucracy genuflecting to Indira's slightest nod. It was Jayaprakash Narayan who appeared like an avenging angel to unite them. After seat adjustments, staunch enemies Jan Sangh and the CPM forged an electoral alliance. Their collective ensured that the Congress won just one seat in the entire North India. Indira and her son Sanjay were humiliated in their pocket boroughs Amethi and Rae Bareli. This happened because the anti-Congress forces fought from a moral high ground. Most of them, barring the DMK, were in the opposition. Their leaders, such as Morarji Desai, Atal Bihari Vajpayee, George Fernandes, Charan Singh, etc., had spotless reputations. The opposition had a battery of leaders who enjoyed the people's trust and were an ethical and credible group than the ruling party. But once the Congress lost power after Rajiv Gandhi, fragmentation followed not just of the Grand Old Party but also of several regional outfits. The coalition era began in the 1990s. Various regional parties with caste and regional bases came to power in many states. They dominated the administrations of prime ministers P V Narasimha Rao and Dr Manmohan Singh. The first stock market scandal broke during Rao's tenure when Manmohan Singh was finance minister. Later, on his watch, many scandals involving regional parties, such as the DMK and the RLD, were exposed. The three decades between 1990-2020 saw regional parties like SP, BSP, TMC, YSRC and BRS assuming power in their states. Since power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely, corruption by their ministers and minions left enough breadcrumbs for vengeful agencies to trap them.

Though Indira created the template, Modi perfected it. He changed the rule of the game and governance. After winning two consecutive terms on the twin planks of anti-corruption and good governance, he has the opposition on the run. Their mutual suspicion is their failing. Modi is aware that morality unites and immorality divides. His team burned the midnight oil preparing files on hundreds of cases against each party and organisation hostile to him. Giving a dog a bad name and hanging him became the motto. Since politics cannot be done sans money, Modi has destroyed the opposition's gravy train. His strategy is to keep the opposition from closing ranks on a single issue like the BJP did the Congress in 2014. Natch, Mamata Banerjee wouldn't seek support from the Left or the Congress even when a dozen of her party's leaders are in jail or face prosecution. Telangana Chief Minister K Chandrashekar Rao hates to deal with the Congress when his own daughter is facing probes. Arvind Kejriwal and Rahul Gandhi abhor each other more than they hate Modi. Akhilesh Yadav and Mayawati wouldn't break bread with each other even when the ED and the CBI are sniffing out their past records and deals. The Congress leadership shudders at reaching out to other opposition parties when Bhupesh Baghel and Ashok Gehlot are sitting ducks for the agencies. Baghel's personal staff and some Congress MLAs have been raided in the past few weeks. Farooq Abdullah and Mehbooba Mufti have been traipsing in and out of the ED offices, answering uncomfortable questions. Kerala Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan is spending sleepless nights because the ED has detained a senior IAS officer attached to his office. The Lalu Prasad clan, including his son who is Bihar's deputy chief minister, are daily visitors to the offices of one agency or another. Jharkhand Chief Minister Hemant Soren is surviving in the office on a daily basis as Damocles' sword is permanently fixed over his head. But both Soren and Yadav get no credible support from any quarter. The NCP hasn't been able to unite the opposition because two ex-NCP ministers in the state and at the Centre are facing graft investigations and are afraid of going to jail.

The isolation of opposition chief ministers from their counterparts stems from the fact that they live under the perpetual fear of ED and CBI raids. It's just their bad luck that Modi is Mr Clean. The opposition failed to substantiate their allegations on the Rafael deal and allegations of nepotism. Moreover, the courts vindicated the Modi government on all fronts. The reality of 2024 is that the discredited and divided opposition lacks the heft to even marginally maim mighty Modi in political warfare. Their accusations of vendetta politics and sloganeering have flopped. The agencies have, indeed, acquired pernicious legitimacy for many illegitimate actions. The nation has got the opposition it neither deserves nor needs. Divided, they have fallen, leaving the nation without a credible alternative voice against the ruling party.

WILL THE REAL PHALKE AWARD PLEASE STAND UP

OPINION

NAMRATA JOSHI
Consulting Editor
(namroo@gmail.com)

THE Government of India instituted the Dadasaheb Phalke Award, India's highest honour in cinema, in 1969. The annual recognition that commemorates Dhundiraj Govind Phalke, the maker of Raja Harishchandra (India's first feature film) has been bestowed on legends like Devika Rani, L V Prasad, Soumitra Chatterjee, K Balachander, B Nagi Reddy, Adoor Gopalakrishnan, Mrinal Sen, Shivaji Ganesan, Satyajit Ray, Shyam Benegal, Amitabh Bachchan, and Rajinikanth among many others. All of them received this honour for their incredible artistic journey and invaluable contribution to the growth and development of Indian cinema. Dadasaheb Phalke award is presented by the Union ministry of information and broadcasting along with the annual national film awards and comprises the Swarna Kamal trophy, a shawl and prize money of Rs 10 lakh.

However, of late, a proliferation of private awards and film festivals, all named after Phalke, have conspired to befuddle and mislead, even as some winners (most recently, Vivek Agnihotri for The Kashmir Files) are accused of mixing up the duplicate for the original.

The hullabaloo about receiving them is reminiscent of all the false claims made yearly around the Academy Awards and the Cannes Film Festival. Making it to the long list of eligible films for the Oscars often gets celebrated as a big achievement, while it is nothing more than the Academy's acceptance of the film's submission. Any film, however good or bad, by a veteran or a newbie, can make it to this 'reminder list', provided it fulfils the eligibility criteria. Similarly, showing a film in Marche du Film, i.e., Cannes Film Market, is not the same as being officially selected for the Cannes Film Festival. A market screening slot can be booked on payment.

A casual search in Twitter reveals the existence of multiple faux-Phalke awards. This includes Dadasaheb Phalke Icon Award Films (DPIAF), founded by actor-anchor-dancer-event organiser-editor Kalyanji Jana who also happens to be the organisation's chairman; Dadasaheb Phalke Excellence Awards (DSPEA); and even one named after Phalke's wife, the Saraswatibai Dadasaheb Phalke Film and TV Awards. There are also the Dadasaheb Phalke Film Foundation Awards, the Dadasaheb Phalke Academy Awards, and, well, you get the gist.

This raises genuine concerns. The first is the lack of accountability and the ease by which the name of an icon is exploited. Have there been any agreements, licenses or permits that allow these awards to exist? In an interview with Amar Ujala last year, Phalke's grandson and the founder of Dadasaheb Phalke International Awareness Mission, Chandrashekhar Pusalkar, had objected to the indiscriminate use of Phalke's name in such personal business ventures and wanted an enquiry into the funding of such awards.

What about the prestige of the country's top honour for cinema? Are there no laws protecting the use of these titles? Aren't these fly-by-night awards diluting the dignity of the government's long-established appreciation of its finest artists? In the Amar Ujala interview, Pusalkar had decried that the private awards named after his grandfather were granted to random artists, as opposed to the likes of Bachchan and Mangeshkar, who were honoured, deservedly, by the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting.

Of late, a proliferation of private awards and film festivals, all named after Phalke, have conspired to befuddle and mislead, even as some winners are accused of mixing up the duplicate for the original

The confusion around the Dadasaheb Phalke award came to a head recently when trophies in almost 30 categories were presented at an event at Taj Lands End Mumbai for the Dadasaheb Phalke International Film Festival Awards. The original and official award, as has been pointed out earlier, is only in one category: Lifetime achievement.

As per its website, this private organisation was founded in 2012 and established in 2016 "to carry forward the legacy of Dadasaheb Phalke". Anil Mishra is the founder and managing director, and the management also has Phalke's grandson, Pusalkar, on board as the jury president. It also organises the Dadasaheb Phalke Awards South in Hyderabad, Telangana. Over the years, it appears to have acquired top brand sponsors, and clout with the 2023 awards supported by the Pradhanmantri Sangrahalaya and a letter of acknowledgement and appreciation from Home and Cooperation Minister Amit Shah proudly displayed on its home page. The bigwigs from the film industry have also been validating and legitimising the awards by accepting and celebrating them as an achievement. Apart from Agnihotri, winners this year included eminent personalities like Rekha, Vidya Balan, Aalia Bhatt, Ranbir Kapoor, Anupam Kher, Varun Dhawan among others.

But what we have to ask here is whether this recognition would have any merit if it were not piggybacking on the name of the father of Indian cinema. There's a lot in a name after all; and these faux-awards clearly know the value and clout of utilising that.

Weakening Congress

Your editorial rightly pointed out the fact that Modi's mass appeal has been rapidly reverberating across the nation including the north eastern states. The Congress is being systematically balkanised by regional parties which oppose the Grand Old Party as much as they fight against BJP. Solely relying on their strengths in a few states like Chattisgarh, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Himachal Pradesh and Karnataka is too inadequate for INC to secure even 50 MPs for Lok Sabha, the Bharat Jodo Yatra undertaken by Rahul Gandhi notwithstanding.

Venkat Desikan, Chennai

Political corruption

Karnataka Lokayukta officials have seized Rs. 8.12 crore of black money from the office and residence of BJP MLA K Madal Virupakshappa's son in Bengaluru. This must make the BJP top notch cleanse their own house in the state first before blaming others from amassing wealth and indulging in corrupt practices. This is a litmus test for BJP in dealing with such individuals in its own party, in the run up to the assembly elections in the state.

Temple priests

This refers to the Madras HC setting aside the government appointment of two priests at a Hindu temple in Trichy district, citing agama shastras. If the DMK government is hell bent on its mission, it can well build new temples of Hindu deities across the state, under the aegis of HR & CE department and even implement its reservation formula in appointment of priests, instead of tampering with the traditions of centuries old temples.

N. Balakrishnan, Chennai

EC imbroglio

The Supreme court mandated collegium for selection of CEC and ECs may bring semblance of autonomy in the Election Commission. Importantly the story begins after the selection. The incumbents after all are extended wings of the executive and have to toe the line of the government of the day. Moreover, the government's carrot and stick policy is always at play. If one fails to do the bidding, the investigative agencies such as IT are unleashed, otherwise post retirement cushy jobs and sinecures are offered.

Cautioning Rahul

Rahul Gandhi just doesn't seem to realise that whatever he speaks whether it is to his own partymen, the media or abroad doesn't influence those who listen to him. Therefore, he speaking on the topic "Learning to Listen in the 21st Century" had me wondering if the esteemed Cambridge University authorities erred in inviting a man whose only agenda seems to be spewing venom by giving unsubstantiated statements about democracy in India. The world knows how India's stature is rising and a man whose party is reeling under successive electoral setbacks doesn't seem to have the common sense to shed the narrative of maligning India's image abroad.

Hijab and secularism

The requirement that students wear no hijabs is ironic and calls into doubt India's secularism; secularism ends the moment a faith is questioned. The government and educational institutions must provide students the freedom to express themselves and recognise India's diversity.

Ananya Goutham, Bengaluru

Don't waste water

Holi, is arguably the most fun-filled and boisterous of all Hindu festivals. However, it has been observed that residential societies waste a lot of water during Holi every year. People should be asked to play Holi only with dry colours. They should avoid colours which are mixed with harmful chemicals, as these may lead to skin diseases and even cause blindness if they get into the eyes. Everyone should take care not to waste water while celebrating Holi.

Poverty not considered a virtue anymore, says PM

Govt successful in drawing record investments in infra, says Modi

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

> The present government has not only been successful in eliminating the mentality that poverty is a virtue, but also is making record investments in modern infrastructure
>
> Prime Minister Narendra Modi

PRIME MINISTER Narendra Modi on Saturday claimed that his government has succeeded in eliminating the mentality that 'poverty' is a virtue. Citing the obstacles that were in the path of prosperity and investment during the previous government, Modi said, "The present government has not only been successful in eliminating the mentality that poverty is a virtue, but also is making record investments in modern infrastructure."

Speaking in a post-budget webinar on 'Infrastructure and Investment', he said the PM Gati Shakti National Master Plan is going to change the face of India's infrastructure and its multimodal logistics.

Giving equal importance to the development of social infrastructure, the PM said that the country's needs to strengthen the social infrastructure along with the strength of the physical infrastructure.

The PM said, "We consider infrastructure development as the driving force of the economy; India will achieve the target of becoming a developed nation by 2047 by following this path."

He emphasised that India now needs to improve its speed and move in top gear as the time of new responsibilities, new possibilities and bold decisions for every stakeholder has come.

Highlighting the country's capex plans, he said it has increased five times compared to 2013-14 and the government is moving with a target of investing ₹110 lakh crore under the National Infrastructure Pipeline.

"And this year's general budget is aimed at giving new energy to infrastructure with a focus on creating modern infrastructure in all areas such as roads, railways, ports and airports," the PM said.

He said average annual construction of national highways has nearly doubled since 2014. Mod further noted that electrification of railway lines has increased to 4,000 route kilometers from 600 route kilometers earlier and the number of airports increased to 150 from 74 in 2014.

He added that 100 critical projects have been prioritised with a whopping allotment of ₹75,000 crore.

Elaborating on the role of states, the PM said that about one-year extension of interest-free loan up to 50 years loans and the budgetary expenditure for this has also been increased to the tune of 30 per cent. "With quality and multimodal infrastructure, our logistics cost is going to reduce further in the days to come. This will have a positive impact on the goods made in India, on the competence of our products. Along with the logistics sector, there will be a lot of improvement in ease of living and ease of doing business," he informed the Participants, including 700 CEOs through Webinar.

The PM also stressed upon the need of having a mechanism for skill forecasting that will help small and big industries from different sectors.

Sitharaman rejects Oppn charge of selling out PSUs

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

DISMISSING Opposition charges that the government is selling public sector companies, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Saturday said there is, however, no sector in India that is not available for the private sector to be in and function.

"The government is not selling everything. The opposition fully understands the meaning but says we are selling them off. We are not selling them off,'' Sitharaman said looking at Shashi Tharoor who was among the audience.

India's public sector policy, the finance minister said, it is not a crazy one. Speaking at the Raisina Dialogue in Delhi, she further noted that there were four core sectors in which the government had said there would be minimum presence, but even they have been open to the private sector. "Strategic sectors like telecom the government will have a presence,'' she said.

India has the right combination of things that matter for a growing economy – a middle class, a captive market with purchasing power, tech-driven public investment and products. Rule of law is key.

Sitharaman also pointed out that India bailed out neighbouring Sri Lanka which was reeling under its worst economic crisis.

Commenting on the failure to arrive at a consensus on global peace at the G20 Finance Ministers' meet in Bengaluru recently, she said a joint declaration could not be issued but most points were agreed upon.

"A joint communique could not be issued after the G20 Finance Ministers' meet. However, it must be highlighted that out of the 17 points that were released in the chair document 15 had a consensus. Two countries may have objected to the points relating to the conflict, but overall we agreed on most things. There was unanimity on debt-related stress," she said.

"The voice of the Global South should be heard, as the G20 suggests, and the meeting was a good platform to thrash out the issues," she said.

> There is no sector in India that is not available for the private sector to be in and function. Public sector policy is not a crazy one. The government is not selling everything. The opposition fully understands the meaning but says we are selling them off

SANIA MIRZA

A TRAILBLAZER WHO BECAME THE WORLD'S BEST

INDRANEEL DAS @ Chennai

EXPRESS ILLUSTRATION

"I know nothing about cricket," Sania Mirza was seen remarking to the Royal Challengers Bangalore contingent in a video posted on their official Twitter handle. She had just been named as the mentor of the Women's Premier League franchise.

One would scoff at those words. After all, she is married to former Pakistan cricket captain Shoaib Malik and is someone who watches cricket from the stands. And who doesn't know about cricket in India? But for those who know her, she is just that. Her words sum her up. There are no qualms about hiding something that she may not know and she speaks her mind unabashedly. Consequences be damned. And her greatness stems from it.

The curtains are down on her career but Sania lives on with her rich legacy on and off the court. She has been one of the greatest women athletes of post-liberalisation India, holding that beacon with aplomb. Yet, not all has been hunky dory. She had to fight the system and build her career despite the system. Time and again she was forced to wade through a plethora of challenges that the sport would hurl at her or the society but time and again she, just like her stinging forehand, would give it back with interest.

Those t-shirt slogans she wore that said "Well behaved women rarely make history" and "You can either agree with me, or be wrong" turned into controversy and even at the age of 19, she handled it with dexterity. She grew up challenging the established order, at times even challenging the country's conservative thinking. There have been moments when she had to stand up for her rights too. Even now.

What made the 36-year-old more extraordinary was her conduct on the tennis court. She never let those moments get under her skin and always made it a point to reply with a win on the court. Every time there was a controversy or someone questioned her achievements, she would come back strong.

Without her numerous exploits on the court, she would have been lost in the pages of tennis history. For about two decades she was one of the leading tennis figures in the country. She was forced to shift her focus to doubles after a string of injuries. The end result? She became one of the first women's World No 1s in a country that seldom produces good athletes. The only Indian singles player to be seeded at a Grand Slam as well. Only woman in the country to win a Women's Tennis Association singles title. Her doubles titles (women and mixed) exceed 40. Year-end Finals titles (when Sania was combining with former World No 1 singles Martina Hingis). Her mixed doubles Grand Slam titles. For 91 consecutive weeks, she was World No 1. The record still stands for women in any sport in India. Her singles journey was cut short by injuries but even in those early years, she showed glimpses of her genius.

NEWSMAKER

Perhaps one trophy she would be missing is a medal at the Olympics, which she had always dreamt about. Now that she walks into the sunset, that moment could still be realised by her, maybe as a coach or a mentor.

Like she said in the same video posted on the RCB Twitter handle, "I thought (when I was made mentor of RCB) what I am going to do, what am I going to talk to the girls about? I am recently retired, actually it's just last week. So I was thinking what (would) my next step in life be? So my next step was to try and help women athletes around and in India."

She also said that she would be able to help through "the mental aspect of things I have been going through in my career..." And her experiences would definitely help the women cricketers. "Last year was tough with three surgeries... it's always going out when you are on top."

Life has taken a new turn. We don't know much about her immediate plans, but we do know she wants to spend time with her son, Izhaan. Like she said on Saturday in Hyderabad, "... most important of all, spend time with my son." No matter what she does, she will remain one of India's finest sportspersons.

Australia looks to boost trade ties with India during Albanese visit

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

Anthony Albanese

AUSTRALIAN Prime Minister, Anthony Albanese, will be on a state visit to India next week (March 8th to 11th) with the objective of strengthening trade and people to people ties.

"This will be my first visit to India as Prime Minister and I look forward to reinforcing the strong bond between our two countries. Our relationship with India is strong but it can be stronger. It is underpinned by our Comprehensive Strategic Partnership, which underscores a joint commitment to working together to enhance our defence, economic, and technological interests,'' said PM Albanese.

A stronger India-Australia partnership is good for the stability of the region an would also mean more opportunities and more trade and investment, directly benefiting people of both countries."

"As we look to the future, India will continue to be a significant partner and close friend to Australia. I look forward to hosting Prime Minister Modi in Australia mid-year for the Quad Leaders' Summit and to visiting India again for the G20 Leaders' Summit in September, later this year."

Meanwhile, PM Albanese will join Prime Minister Modi at the Fourth Test Match of the Border-Gavaskar Trophy in Ahmedabad. He will also be visiting Mumbai and Delhi.

PM Albanese will join PM Modi will discuss trade and investment, renewable energy, technology, defence and security cooperation. The visit will also highlight our strong educational and cultural ties.

The Australian delegation will include Trade and Tourism Minister Don Farrell and Resources Minister Madeleine King. Minister Farrell and Minister King will also lead a delegation of senior Australian business leaders on this visit.

NIA attaches assets of gangsters as nationwide crackdown continues

AMIT MUKHERJEE @ New Delhi

ANTI-TERROR STRIKE

- NIA attaches properties of crime syndicates after searches conducted at 76 locations linked with gangsters in Punjab, Haryana, Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Gujarat

- Incriminating documents and digital devices also seized during the pan-India operation
- Cases were registered against 3 major organised syndicates under UAPA in 2022, which were involved in sensational crimes
- Their crimes included murder of Sidhu Moosewala, Maharashtra builder, Sanjay Biyani, and Sandeep Nangal Ambia, an international Kabaddi organizer in Punjab

THE National Investigation Agency continued its targeted crackdown to dismantle the terrorist-gangster-drug smuggler nexus operating at various pockets of India and attached four properties owned by members of organised crime syndicates that has been involved in antisocial and anti-national activities including extortion, killings and smuggling in Haryana and Delhi.

According to NIA sources, these attachments and seizures have been done in the wake of the recent searches conducted at 76 locations linked with gangsters in Punjab, Haryana, Rajasthan, UP, MP, Maharashtra, Gujarat and Delhi/NCR in February and seized pistols, revolvers and rifles, along with ammunition besides cash to the tune of crores.

Also incriminating documents, and digital devices were also seized during the pan-India operation which was the 5th operation against the organised cartels.

The NIA had registered cases against 3 major organised crime syndicates under UAPA in August 2022 who had spread their criminal networks across the north Indian states and were involved in many sensational crimes, such as the murder of popular singer Sidhu Moosewala and large scale extortions from businessmen and professionals.

Their crimes included the killing of Maharashtra builder, Sanjay Biyani, and Sandeep Nangal Ambia, an international Kabaddi organizer in Punjab. Many of these conspiracies were found to have been masterminded from abroad, including Pakistan and Canada, or by leaders of organised criminal syndicates operating from various jails in the country," an NIA spokesperson said.

The properties attached were found to be 'proceeds of terrorism', which were used for hatching terror conspiracies and execution of crimes, the NIA spokesperson confirmed. The properties attached include a residential property belonging to Asif Khan in Delhi, a residential property and agricultural land in 3 different locations belonging to Surender Singh alias Chiku in Mahendragarh district of Haryana.

According to NIA. Asif Khan was supplying weapons and logistics support to the gangsters, including a safe haven. Chiku is a close associate of Naresh Sethi, Anil Chippi and Raju Basodi, notorious mafia leaders, who were earlier arrested by the NIA.

Extradition, intel sharing on focus as G20 anti-corruption meet ends

History of fleeing economic offenders

The meet was vital for India specially in the wake of economic offenders and absconders fleeing the country after committing crime and taking refuge in foreign land. In the absence of smooth bilateral ties, securing extradition of such offenders has been a time consuming & tedious process

THE first meeting of the G20 Anti-corruption Working Group (ACWG) concluded in Gurugram, Haryana on Friday with a call for strengthening law enforcement cooperation for action against corruption and related economic crimes.

At the 3-day G20 ACWG Meet, intensive and productive deliberations were held on several key focal areas pertaining to asset recovery, fugitive economic offenders, information sharing, institutional frameworks for combating corruption and mutual legal assistance.

The meet was vital for India specially in the wake of economic offenders and absconders fleeing the country after committing crime and taking refuge in foreign land. In the absence of smooth bilateral ties, securing extradition of such offenders has been a time consuming & tedious process.

Following the concluding session, a joint briefing on the meet was conducted by the Rahul Singh, Additional Secretary, Department of personnel and Training and Chair, G20 ACWG, along with Giovanni Tartaglia Polcini, Head of Task Force, Co-chair, G20 ACWG, Italy, addressed the media at the end of the ACWG meeting.

Rahul Singh said that in the past three days, "there have been intensive and productive deliberations on several key focal areas pertaining to Asset Recovery, Fugitive Economic Offenders, formal and informal channels of cooperation for information sharing, institutional frameworks for combating corruption and mutual legal assistance, among others." he endeavour of the delegates during the deliberations to arrive at a consensus on the draft text of the high-level principles that are on the agenda for the ACWG during the India's G20 Presidency, he said.

Over 90 delegates participating from 20 member countries, 10 invitee countries and 9 international grganisations attended the first meeting of the G20 ACWG, which is truly representative of the richness of international experience in anti-corruption initiatives.

Regional groupings the way forward: Naval chief

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

WHEN we work in smaller groups, it helps build trust and interoperability, said Indian Navy Chief Admiral R Hari Kumar said on Saturday.

"When we work in smaller groups, it serves a lot of purposes. It generates a lot of trust amongst the partner countries. Then, you work towards building capacity, it results in increased interoperability, better domain awareness, regular engagements, and all this is what finally leads to maritime security," Admiral Kumar said, while speaking on the 'Future of Conflict' in the Raisina Dialogue in the capital.

India's policy for working with other powers in the immediate region is based on the principles of respect, dialogue, peace and prosperity, and the vision of Mission SAGAR or security and growth for all in the region.

"Challenges pertaining to the maritime domain are traditional and non-traditional – and there is need for cooperation. Today we are looking at issue-based convergence and regional groupings can solve regional problems,'' Admiral Kumar said adding that India looks at everyone in the region to prosper together.

Technological innovations such as space-based surveillance, artificial intelligence (AI) and elint or electronic intelligence are helping India's maritime commanders have better maritime domain awareness but the Ukraine war has shown the rapidity with which counter-measures are developed for all new technologies, Admiral Kumar said.

"Our oceans are very vast and substantial spaces. In the maritime domain you are always moving. You have to be resilient and stay ahead in terms of technology as there is a possibility of interception,'' Admiral Kumar said.

The other panelists included Admiral John Aquilino, commander of the US Indo-Pacific Command, the UK Chief of Naval Staff Admiral Sir Ben Key, Chief of Staff of Japan's defence ministry Gen Koji Yamazaki and the Royal Canadian Navy commander Vice Admiral Angus Topshee.

The top maritime commanders discussed a range of issues – from the impact of green fuels on the interoperability and increased engagement of navies to the human element using the latest technologies.

Most Chhattisgarh govt employees opt for OPS

Over 88 per cent prefer it over the New Pension Scheme

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

A strikingly high percentage of government employees has decided to go ahead with the Old Pension Scheme (OPS) in Chhattisgarh.

Over 88 per cent of government staffers so far have given their choice following the Congress-ruled government's proposition, asking them to opt either OPS or the New Pension Scheme (NPS).

The state finance department issued a notification on January 24 this year, giving one month to over three lakh beneficiaries to submit an affidavit citing their preference.

Later, the department at the behest of chief minister Bhupesh Baghel extended the deadline to March 5. Once the choice is made by an employee, it will not be changed later.

Of the 3.02 lakh, over 2.68 lakh, almost 84 per cent, have accepted OPS with barely around 2,000 giving the other option, according to the official information.

The remaining employees will have to decide by Sunday.

Chief minister Baghel has announced revival of the OPS for the state employees in his previous state budget speech.

Later in May, he had sent a proposal to the Pension Fund Regulatory and Development Authority for the withdrawal of over Rs 17,000 crore accrued under the National Pension Scheme since November 2004.

The chief minister had also written to Prime Minister Narendra Modi and finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman to return the state's share in NPS. However, the Centre refused the state's demand to give back the amount deposited in the NPS following which the Congress government took a decision to give an option to its employees to choose between the OPS and the NPS.

The Bhupesh Baghel cabinet has also decided that instead of November 1, 2004, the state employees will become members of the Chhattisgarh General Provident Fund (GPF) on April 1, 2022 and presented an option to those appointed before April 1, 2022, to either remain in the NPS or to join the OPS.

Chhattisgarh is among the non BJP-ruled states like Rajasthan, Himachal Pradesh, Punjab and Jharkhand to have decided to take this move towards reverting to OPS for their employees.

Employees opting for OPS/NPS

Total Employees	3,02,798
Total options given so far	2,67,706
For OPS	2,65,824
For NPS	1,882
Remaining	35,092

Barely 2,000 chose NPS as other option

In poll year, new district carved out in MP's Vindhya

ANURAAG SINGH @ Bhopal

CONTINUING to work on its 'Mission Vindhya' to repeat BJP's 2018 assembly poll's stellar performance in this year's end Assembly polls at 30 seats of the seven eastern and north eastern districts of Madhya Pradesh, CM Shivraj Singh Chouhan on Saturday announced the creation of new Mauganj district out of the existing Rewa district.

The new Mauganj district, which will be MP's 53rd district, will comprise four tehsils, including three existing tehsils of Rewa district, Mauganj, Hanumana and Naigarhi tehsils, besides a new Dev Talab tehsil. The new district of East MP, will also include two full-fledged assembly segments of existing Rewa district, including Mauganj and Dev Talab, with the latter being presently represented by BJP veteran and present MP Vidhan Sabha Speaker Girish Gautam.

The new district, once it formally comes into existence, will be the new Gateway of MP to Eastern Uttar Pradesh's Mirzapur-Varanasi region.

Bengal Congress spokesperson held for Didi comments

PRONAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

THE West Bengal police in the wee hours of Saturday arrested Congress spokesperson Kaustav Bagchi from his North 24 Parganas residence for alleged comments on chief minister Mamata Banerjee.

Though police slapped non-bailable charges on Bagchi, the additional chief judicial magistrate of Bankshall court granted him bail after an argument between the public prosecutor and the defence lawyers over the timing of the police action and justification of the arrest.

Reacting to state Congress president Adhir Chowdhury's comment on TMC's defeat in the by-election, Bengal CM on March 2 raised questions on the death of Chowdhury's daughter and driver.

Condemning Mamata's remark, Bagchi, the next day, referred to a book saying the author mentioned the past life of Mamata Banerjee. His comment came a day after TMC's defeat in Sagardighi by-elections in which Congress-Left Front alliance candidate won. A complaint was lodged against Bagchi with Burtolla police station in north Kolkata. Around 3.30 am on Saturday, a large contingent of police personnel surrounded Bagchi's house.

Bagchi was booked under the IPC charges of 120B (criminal conspiracy), 504 (Intentional insult with intent to provoke breach of peace), 506 (criminal intimidation) and 509 (intending to insult the modesty of any woman). In a social media post, TMC spokesperson Kunal ghosh said Bagchi's comment insulted the CM but the party's students' wing and youth wing could have dealt with it.

Minister alleges irregularities in scheme

Local MLA and tribal affairs minister Meena Singh recently blew the whistle on irregularities in CM Kanya Vivah Yojana in Umaria district. In the wedding ceremony of 86 girls (under the scheme meant for financial weak girls), she announced that instead of the ₹12,950 jewelry, which was to be gifted by the government to each bride, the ones present at the venue could actually be worth only between ₹5,000 and ₹6,000. She further announced that instead of the jewelry, the administration will credit ₹12,950 into the bank account of each bride.

MLAs get new tablets to access state Budget

The 230 MLAs of MP Vidhan Sabha were given brand new tablets by the Assembly for easily accessing the 2023-24 annual budget, which was also the first paperless budget of MP. Two senior Congress MLAs, including ex-CM and state party chief Kamal Nath and leader of opposition Dr Govind Singh, however, decided to return the tablets, as they didn't want to use "Assembled in China" digital devices. The move was aimed at cornering the state government on buying tablets which were assembled in China, whose army has had tension with the Indian Army.

BJP MLA plans new party for separate Vindhya

Crusading for the cause of a separate Vindhya Pradesh for long, the BJP MLA from Maihar seat of Satna district Narayan Tripathi is believed to be working at launching a new political party in support of the demand. According to sources close to the fourth-time sitting MLA (twice on BJP ticket, once of SP and once on Congress ticket), he plans to field in the year-end polls, candidates on all 30 seats of Vindhya region's seven districts, out of which the BJP had won 24 seats in 2018 assembly polls. Sources in BJP, however, claimed that it could be nothing at all, but only an attempt by the MLA to pressurize the party.

Work to start soon on Dhannipur mosque to replace Babri Masjid

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

NEARLY two years after the submission of the map, the Ayodhya Development Authority (ADA) approved it on Friday, paving the way for the construction of a mosque at Dhannipur village in Ayodhya district, as mandated by the Supreme Court in its

The Babri Masjid-Ram Janmabhoomi verdict delivered on November 9, 2019. The construction of the mosque, being built pursuant to the apex court verdict, will be monitored by a trust called the Indo Islamic Cultural Foundation (IICF).

The trust had submitted the maps of the mosque and structures planned over the five-acre land allotted to the UP Sunni Central Waqf Board Muslim in compliance with the SC order on May 2021. The land was allocated to it by the Ayodhya administration in Dhannipur village of Sohawal tehsil, about 25 km away from Ayodhya town.

According to IICF secretary Athar Hussain, the trust would hold a meeting to finalise the construction plan after conclusion of the month of Ramzan which falls from March 22 to April 22 this year.

According to IICF, the new mosque would be bigger than the Babri Masjid but it won't be a lookalike of the structure which once stood in Ayodhya. A hospital will hold the centrestage to serve humanity in consonance with the spirit of Islam. It won't be a concrete structure but will be in sync with the architecture of the mosque, replete with calligraphy and Islamic symbols

"While the hospital will treat the sick and infirm, the community kitchen will feed the hungry, blurring barriers of religion, caste and creed," the IICF secretary added.

Sibal announces platform to fight injustice

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

FORMER Congress leader and Rajya Sabha MP Kapil Sibal on Saturday announced a new platform 'Insaaf' to fight against "injustice" in the country and urged all Opposition chief ministers and leaders to support him.

Sibal said the first meeting of the new platform will be held at Jantar Mantar in Delhi on March 11 during which he will present a new vision for India. "On March 11, we will hold the first meeting and invite everyone to join the movement. I want all Opposition chief ministers and leaders to join me in this and we begin a national movement to fight against injustice," Sibal said at a presser.

Sibal said he is not opposed to the Congress joining his initiative, but stressed that it will be a people's movement and he is not going to form a political party. Though the Constitution guarantees social, economic, and political justice, there was injustice prevailing on all three fronts, Sibal said. "The situation is such that courts are silent, lawyers are silent and the public is silent too. It is after great deliberation that I decided that it's time we fought against injustice," he said.

CM pick? Raje's grand b'day bash draws sea of people in Rajasthan

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

FORMER Rajasthan CM Vasundhara Raje's grand show in the temple town of Salasar turned out to be an impressive celebration of her 70th birthday on Saturday.

With a large turnout of people and her supporters, Raje made every effort to project her image of being in the race to be the BJP's chief ministerial candidate in the state.

Ironically, on the same day, the state unit of the BJP did its best to counter Raje's grand show by organising a protest against the Ashok Gehlot-led state government over the alleged paper leaks in recruitment exams for state government jobs in Jaipur.

Raje's birthday is on March 8 but as it coincided with Holi, the celebrations were held four days earlier.

While addressing the meeting after offering prayers at Salasar Balaji Dham, the former CM targeted the Gehlot government, but her main political message was aimed at her opponents within the BJP.

Addressing the gathering, she said, "Now we need to work hard because you have put a big responsibility on our shoulders. I am handing over the responsibility of strengthening the BJP lotus to all of you in the coming elections."

Former Rajasthan CM Vasundhara Raje offers prayers at Salasar Balaji Dham to mark her 70th birthday on Saturday | PTI

The BJP's central leadership has sidelined Raje from the state's politics for the last four years, Through her show of strength, Raje evidently wanted them to take note of her political power even though she doesn't want to convey the impression that she is rebelling against the party.

To this extent, she remarked, "I am working under the leadership of Modiji and Naddaji and I am trying to organise all of you to work hard."

Coinciding with the event, the state unit of the BJP held a massive protest in Jaipur on the issue of alleged paper leaks in the state capital Jaipur under the leadership of Raje's arch-rival, Satish Poonia, its president, at the CM's residence.

The BJP workers staged a fierce protest and tried to surround the CM's residence. The police chased them with lathis and deployed water cannons against them. It also detained Satish Poonia and Deputy Leader of Opposition Rajendra Rathore. To cover up the infighting in the party, BJP state in-charge Arun Singh reached Salasar to congratulate Raje.

Saha leads Tripura CM race; oath-taking in Modi's presence

SHAHID FARIDI @ New Delhi

THE Bharatiya Janata Party leadership is likely to retain Tripura chief minister Manik Saha in the post. The swearing in of the new chief minister, scheduled for March 8, the day of Holi, will be attended by top BJP leaders from across the country, including Prime Minister Narendra Modi, home minister Amit Shah and the chief ministers of the BJP-ruled states.

Sources said the top BJP leadership has finalised the name of Saha and asked Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma, the party's pointsman for the Northeast, to talk to leaders in Tripura and get their endorsement for him. The name of the next chief minister is likely to be formally announced on March 6, when a meeting of the newly-elected MLAs of the BJP and its ally Indigenous People's Front of Tripura is scheduled to take place at Agartala.

Party sources have not ruled out trouble in the MLAs' meeting due to factionalism in the state unit. An ugly brawl had broken out among BJP MLAs and state party functionaries when Saha was appointed after the removal of the party's first chief minister in the state, Biplab Deb. Sources said a faction among the newly-elected MLAs, which is loyal to Deb and former Union minister Pratima Bhowmik, is opposed to the re-election of Saha. This faction is strongly pitching for Pratima as the next chief minister. Pratima, who had become the first minister from Tripura in the Union council of ministers, is also a strong contender for the chief ministership, sources said.

Meanwhile, Sarma, who landed in Agartala, said that his party was ready to join hands with the TIPRA Motha, which emerged as the second-largest party, but only on the condition that Tripura will remain undivided.

Office of Meghalaya MLA backing Conrad Sangma's NPP set on fire

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

THE office of a newly-elected Meghalaya MLA's firm was set on fire by miscreants on Friday night hours after he pledged his support to the National People's Party (NPP), headed by Conrad K Sangma. Personnel of the fire brigade doused the inferno but the office was partially gutted.

Hill State People's Democratic Party (HSPDP) MLA Methodius Dkhar is the director of the firm.

Dkhar and his party colleague Shakliar Warjri joined the NPP camp on Friday as Sangma was trying to cobble up numbers to form a coalition government along with the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP).

The NPP, which bagged 26 seats, has the support of six other MLAs – two from the BJP, two independents and two from the HSPDP.

After Dkhar and Warjri pledged their support to NPP, HSPDP chief KP Pangniang had written to Sangma stating that the party did not authorise the duo to lend support "for the formation of your government".

"The party has no role in this affair and therefore, (we) withdraw our support to your party, effective from March 3," Pangniang further wrote.

Sangma said the two MLAs had come to support the NPP on their own volition. "The two are not merging themselves with the NPP and will remain as HSPDP MLAs," he said.

Some tribal organisations staged a protest in Shillong on Saturday against Dkhar and Warjri. They burnt their effigies and held a sit-in as they mounted pressure on the two to desert the NPP camp.

Led by the Hynniewtrep Youth Council, the protesting organisations warned that they would take 'drastic steps' against the two MLAs if they fail to desert the NPP-led formation by Monday.

Further, they threatened not to allow the duo to take oath and stage a dharna outside their houses.

The United Democratic Party (UDP) had bagged 11 seats and emerged as the second largest party after the NPP in the recent polls.

The UDP, Congress, Trinamool Congress and some regional forces are trying to form an alternative front after Sangma met Governor Phagu Chauhan at the Raj Bhavan on Friday and staked claim to form the next government.

The elections, held in 59 of the 60 seats, had thrown up a fractured mandate. Any formation, wanting to form the government, will need the support of at least 30 MLAs, for now.

Prior to the polls, Conrad Sangma's NPP and the BJP had been running the state government together under the banner of the Meghalaya Democratic Alliance. They, however, went their separate ways before the election was held.

For a cause: A dialysis centre for dogs in Surat

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

A Surat-based ophthalmologist has established a one-of-a-kind medical facility to enable dialysis procedures on dogs after losing his pet to kidney disease. After Leo, a black dachshund, much loved by Dr. Mahendrasinh Chauhan and his wife Dr. Binodini Chauhan, died of kidney failure a few years ago in 2016, the couple delved into research into the issue for the next two years. Now, dog owners from many neighboring states, including Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan, are flocking to the dialysis facility set up by the doctor couple.

"We loved our dog dearly, and when he suddenly stopped eating in 2016, we took him to the veterinarian, who informed us that his kidneys had failed. We were determined to save our dog at all costs, so I started looking for a dog dialysis center in Gujarat, Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh, and Rajasthan," said Dr Chauhan.

They could, however, find only one in Mumbai, where the waiting list was three to four months long.

"Despite our best efforts, we lost Leo," he added.

Dr Ayub Sama, a veterinarian, said, "According to studies, renal illness affects one in ten dogs." Infections like leptospirosis, medication toxicosis, dental disease, geriatric degeneration, etc and increased thirst and vomiting, behavioral changes, weight loss, poor appetite, poor coat quality, and some other symptoms are typical signs of renal illness causing treatable kidney disease in household dogs, where brief dialysis might be lifesaving, he added. "My husband and I conducted extensive research both domestically and abroad to determine whether dogs and other small animals with kidney problems may undergo dialysis and, if so, how and with which machine. We learnt that such a machine is accessible in the US and placed an order for it,"Dr. Binodini Chauhan said.

"Now, we have established 'Leo Dialysis Center' to save the lives of animals without caring for any profit. We not only care for pets but also for stray dogs. If someone provides information, they are also treated free in our hospital," she added.

CIVILIANS FLEE BAKHMUT AS KYIV PULLOUT LOOMS

Amidst ongoing fighting, Russian defence chief inspects front line in eastern Ukraine

KHROMOVE

PRESSURE mounted Saturday on Ukrainian troops and civilians hunkering down in Bakhmut, as Kyiv's forces tried to help residents flee the beleaguered eastern city amid what Western analysts say may be preparations for a Ukrainian withdrawal.

A woman was killed and two men were badly wounded by shelling while trying to cross a makeshift bridge out of Bakhmut on Saturday, according to Ukrainian troops who were assisting them. A Ukrainian army representative who asked not to be named for operational reasons told AP that it was now too dangerous for civilians to leave the city by vehicle, and that people had to flee on foot instead.

Bakhmut has for months been a key target of Moscow's grinding eastern offensive, with Russian troops, including large forces from Wagner Group, inching ever closer to Kyiv's key eastern stronghold.

An AP team near Bakhmut on Saturday saw a pontoon bridge set up by Ukrainian soldiers to help the city's few remaining residents reach the nearby village of Khromove. Later, they saw at least five houses on fire as a result of attacks in Khromove.

Ukrainian units over the past 36 hours destroyed two key bridges just outside Bakhmut, including one linking it to the nearby town of Chasiv Yar along the last remaining Ukrainian resupply route, according to UK military intelligence officials and other Western analysts.

The UK defence ministry said in the latest of its regular Twitter updates that the destruction of the bridges came as Russian fighters made further inroads into Bakhmut. Meanwhile, Russia's defence minister has inspected the frontline in east Ukraine, whose forces are struggling in eastern Bakhmut.

Sergei Shoigu "inspected a command post on the front" in the direction of the southern Donetsk region, the defence ministry said, without specifying exactly where or when. It put out a video of Shoigu travelling in a helicopter and talking to a soldier in front of damaged buildings. The visit came with fighting ongoing around Bakhmut. Agencies

Has the world's largest army and navy

Along with the world's biggest standing army, China has the world's largest navy and recently launched its third aircraft carrier. It boasts a massive stockpile of missiles, along with stealth aircraft, bombers capable of delivering nuclear weapons, advanced surface ships and nuclear powered submarines. China has already established one foreign military base in the Horn of Africa nation of Djibouti and is refurbishing Cambodia's Ream Naval Base that could give it at least a semi-permanent presence on the Gulf of Thailand facing South China Sea.

CHINA SET TO RAISE SPENDING ON DEF IN BUDGET

BEIJING

CHINA on Saturday signalled at increasing its defence budget, the second biggest after the US, citing "complex security challenges" ahead of its annual Parliament session during which it will unveil a new ministerial and official leadership, including a successor to Premier Li Keqiang. The annual season of China's rubberstamp Parliament began on Saturday with the opening meeting of the top advisory body the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference (CPPCC) while its national legislature, the National People's Congress (NPC), will begin its session today.

Over 5,000 deputies and advisors will take part in the two sessions lasting for over a week during which China will formally unveil its new ministerial and top official leadership including a new Premier to succeed Li, who will be retiring. Ahead of the NPC session, its spokesman Wang Chao signalled an increase in its defence budget, which last year totalled $230 billion after a 7.1% rise, the second largest after the US defence spending of $777.1 billion.

Wang, while not disclosing the amount, which he said will be formally revealed at the NPC on Sunday, defended China's steady increases in annual defence budgets, saying China's defence spending as a share of the GDP was lower than the world average.

Wang said the increase in the defence budget is needed to meet the "complex security challenges for China to fulfil its responsibilities as a major country." China's military modernisation will not be a threat to any country but a positive force safeguarding regional stability and world peace. He also refuted allegations of China's debt trap diplomacy in Africa, saying that Beijing is not the largest creditor of Africa citing data from the World Bank. On Friday, Guo Weimin, spokesperson of the CPPCC said the allegations of "debt traps" linked to China's Belt and Road Initiative are a groundless smear, and Beijing will not stop the initiative from going forward. PTI

KHALISTAN

Another Hindu temple in Aus vandalised; 4th incident this yr

MELBOURNE

A prominent Hindu temple in Brisbane was attacked by pro-Khalistan supporters on Saturday, in the latest incident of vandalism against Hindu temples in Australia.

The incident took place at the Shree Laxmi Narayan Temple in Brisbane.

"Temple priest and devotees called this morning and notified me about the vandalism on the boundary wall of our temple," Temple president Satinder Shukla was quoted as saying by The Australia Today website. "We have informed the Queensland police officers, and they assured to ensure the safety of Temple and devotees."

Sarah Gates, director of Hindu Human Rights, said that the latest hate crime is an attempt to terrorise Australian Hindus.

"This latest hate crime is a pattern of Sikhs For Justice globally, clearly attempting to terrorise Australian Hindus. With a barrage of propaganda, illegal signs and cyberbullying, the organisation intends to present all-pervasive threats, fear and intimidation," Gates said. Gates later tweeted an image of the Hindu community fighting back after the attack on the temple. Community members with the temple committee cleaned anti-Hindu hate-filled graffiti.

"Khalistan supporters are terrorising the Australian Hindu community and making it a very traumatising experience to practice our religion and visit temples," a long-time resident of the suburb said.

This is the fourth incident of vandalism against Hindu temples in two months in Australia. On January 23, the walls of the revered ISCKON temple in Melbourne's Albert Park were vandalised with graffiti "Hindustan Murdabad." On January 16, the historic Shri Shiva Vishnu Temple in Carrum Downs, Victoria, was vandalised in a similar manner. PTI

ASIA MATTERS

At least four dead, thousands evacuated in floods

At least four people have died and nearly 41,000 were evacuated in Malaysia after floodwaters caused by "unusual" torrential rains lasting days swept through several states, officials said on Saturday. Police said at least four people have died since Wednesday. Nearly 41,000 people from six states, although mostly from Johor, have been evacuated to schools and community centres where food, water, and clothes were provided. The latest fatality was a 68-year-old woman

Fuel depot fire toll reaches 18, rescue on

Indonesian rescuers and firefighters on Saturday searched for more than a dozen missing under the rubble of charred houses and buildings, after a large fire spread from a fuel storage depot in the capital and killed at least 18 people. Rescuers were searching for 16 people who were reported missing or separated. About 42 people were receiving treatment in five hospitals, many in critical condition. At least 260 firefighters and 52 fire engines extinguished the blaze just before midnight on Friday after it tore through the neighbourhood for more than two hours, fire officials said. On Saturday, grieving relatives gathered at a police hospital's morgue in eastern Jakarta to try to identify their loved ones. Officials said the victims were burned beyond recognition and could only be identified with the help of DNA and dental records

Amid setbacks, GQG brings cheers

After losing ₹12.50 lakh cr in m-cap in month, 10 Adani firms added ₹1.73L cr in 4 sessions

UMA KANNAN @Bengaluru

GQG Partner's ₹15,446 crore bet on four Adani stocks seems to have brought much-needed near-term relief for the port-to-conglomerate as share prices Group companies recouped after falling up to 80% and there seems to be increased optimism about billionaire Gautam Adani's ability to raise money from avenues other than the public sector banks.

"We believe investment by GQG brings stability to Adani stocks as it means that marquee investors are willing to put money in the Group," Naveen Kulkarni, chief investment officer, Axis Securities PMS told this newspaper.

After losing about ₹12.50 lakh crore in market value in a month, 10-listed Adani added ₹1.73 lakh crore to its market capitalisation in the past four sessions on reports of fund-raising plans. Shares of flagship Adani Enterprises soared over 50% during this period.

Kulkarni noted that the stake sale provides the promoters of Adani group with close to $2 billion of cash, which can be ploughed back into the business in case of any requirement in the form of warrants or rights issues or any other form. Adani Group has not announced where it will utilize the funds. Anshuman Khanna, Director of ValPro and Enablers, said, "The move by the promoters of Adani Group to offload some stake in favour of GQG serves multiple purposes. It further diversifies the holdings in the company in favour of qualitative investors and provides the promoters proprietary equity which can be used to retire debt and/or pool in contribution for committed investments." Few experts, however, feel that Adani Group has a long way to go to get out of the woes triggered by the scathing report of short-seller Hindenburg Research. "The Group's clarification on stock price manipulation is yet to be accepted by the street. A lot will depend on the report submitted by the committee set up by the Supreme Court and probe of market regulator Sebi," said a leading fund manager requesting anonymity.

"Candidly speaking, I feel the reports won't impact the group much but there can always be an element of surprise. The action of rating agencies, global financial institutions and the ability of the group to service its debt and fund aggressive expansion plans is what most people would be monitoring," he added. A day after GQG funding, credit rating agency Icra on Friday revised the outlook for Adani Total Gas and Adani Ports & SEZ from 'stable' to 'negative'. ICRA said it will be monitoring the group's ability to raise funds from the domestic/global market as equity/debt at competitive rates.

Meanwhile, GQG Partners Inc's Australian-listed shares fell by 3% on Friday after the $1.87 billion purchase of Adani Stocks. GQG GQG has high exposure in the Indian market and holds significant stakes in heavyweights such as ITC, HDFC, Reliance Industries, ICICI Bank, and State Bank of India. Its investment in Adani shares has turned eyeballs given its historical investment in fairly valued companies against Adani stocks, which despite the fall are trading at PE multiples of as high as 151. A senior research analyst with a brokerage firm said he is certain that most Adani stocks won't reach their pre-January 24 levels anytime soon given GQG purchased them at a discount as high as 70%.

Foxconn denies any binding agreements on new investment in India

UMA KANNAN @Bengaluru

A day after Karnataka Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said that Foxconn Technology Group, a Taiwan-based iPhone manufacturer, is planning to invest in the state, the company on Saturday denied entering into any binding, definitive agreements.

According to the report, the company's chief executive officer (CEO) Young Liu said his trip to India from February 27 to March 4 was Foxconn's efforts to deepen partnerships and seek cooperation in new areas such as semiconductor development and electric vehicles.

"Foxconn has not entered into binding, definitive agreements for new investments during this trip," the statement said. "Negotiations and internal review are ongoing. Financial investment sums discussed in media are not the information being released by Foxconn."

On Friday, Bommai had said the government signed an agreement with Foxconn for a major investment in the state. "Agreement signed with Foxconn, leading electronics major, to make major investment in the state after a detailed discussion with co's C'man Young Liu. It is expected to create 1 lakh jobs. 300 acres of land near Bengaluru Int. airport allocated," Bommai had tweeted.

Minister of state (MoS), Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY) Rajeev Chandrasekhar tweeted a report along with Apple phones to be built in a new 300-acre factory in Karnataka. "The double-engine governments of Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Bommai are working to get investments and add jobs," tweeted Chandrasekhar.

The Foxconn CEO earlier this week met Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who tweeted on Wednesday that the pair's "discussions covered various topics aimed at enhancing India's tech and innovation ecosystem".

Foxconn is one of the biggest contract manufacturers of Apple's smartphones and has manufacturing facilities in Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh. The Cupertino-based company, Apple, shifted its focus to India after its prime manufacturers and assembling plants in China faced a complete shutdown in 2022 due to its zero Covid policy. The tension between the US and the Chinese government is another reason that American technology companies are shifting their base to India or Vietnam. Last year, the company started assembling the latest iPhone 14 models in India, weeks after its launch.

In India, other than Foxconn, Apple's iPhones are also manufactured by its contract manufacturers Wistron and Pegatron.

ASG Eye Hospitals acquires TN-based Vasan Eye Care

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@Chennai

ASG Eye Hospitals network has taken control of Tamil Nadu-based Vasan Eye Care hospitals after transfer of ownership. The value of acquisition is ₹526 crore and Vasan will continue as an independent brand, according to a statement from ASG.

The National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) has ordered an insolvency proceeding against Vasan Eye Care based on a petition from its supplier in 2017.

Following the receipt of approval from the Committee of Creditors (CoC) with 98% votes for the resolution plan, the Chennai Bench of the NCLT approved the acquisition on February 3. Its investors include Foundation Holdings, General Atlantic, and Kedaara Capital.

"Post this strategic acquisition, we are proud to expand our network presence in South India. Vasan Eye Care is a valued and respected name in eye care and will continue as an independent brand," said Dr Arun Singhvi, Chairman and Managing Director of ASG Hospital.

ASG Eye Hospitals founded in Jodhpur, Rajasthan by Dr Singhvi and Dr Gang and has nearly 54 speciality eye hospitals across 17 states in the country and abroad. With the addition of Vasan Eye Care, ASG Eye Hospitals' network will increase to over 150 hospitals.

Govt panel on social media: Experts sceptical of efficacy

IT industry experts are sceptical about the recently constituted Grievance Appellate Committees (GACs) over their efficacy to address users' grievances against social media intermediaries given huge number of complaints these platforms receive.

Experts feel as there are huge number of grievances against these platforms, GACs could find it difficult to handle as much workloads. They say with the increased workloads, the law has long way to go.

The Union Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY) had announced earlier this week formation of the GACs, which, according to the ministry, would give more digital rights to citizens. The committee, which was set up in January, will address the grievances of users on issues left unaddressed by social media intermediaries. In other words, if a user is dissatisfied with the redressal committees of any social media platform such as Twitter, Facebook or Instagram, one can appeal to the government-appointed GACs. There are three GACs and three members in each panel. An aggrieved customer can file complaints through the GAC digital platform, wherein the entire appeal process will be done online. The committees will have to address the users' appeal within 30 days.

"The digital platform, Grievance Appellate Committee (GAC), is a powerful tool for ensuring accountability of platforms to their users," Union Minister of State for IT Rajeev Chandrasekhar said after formation of the appellate body. The law came into effect from March 1, 2023. The government calls it a citizen-centric reform, which will give more digital rights to the citizens. However, industry experts have some reservations about it. A few have raised concern over how GACs will deal with huge number of complaints, while others said this framework could make the government an arbiter of permissible speech on the Internet.

Rule and its purpose

Established under the Information Technology (Intermediary Guidelines and Digital Media Ethics Code) Rules, 2021 (IT Rules), the government said the purpose of the law is to ensure a safe and trusted and accountable Internet for Indian users.

The IT rules 2021 mandates social media giants to have a grievance officer to address content related issues of users. According to the government, GACs were constituted as social media platforms have failed to deal with users' concerns.

"The need for creation of the GACs was due to a large number of grievances being left unaddressed or unsatisfactorily addressed by Internet Intermediaries," said the IT ministry in a press note.

It further said the IT rules 2021 provides for creating avenues for grievance redressal apart from the courts and ensure that the Constitutional rights of Indian citizens are not contravened by any big-tech platforms by ensuring new accountability standards for significant social media intermediaries (SSMIs).

The government notified the rule in October 2022. As per the rule, each Grievance Appellate Committee consists of a Chairperson and two whole-time members appointed by the central government, of which one should be a member ex-officio and two should be independent members. The first committee will be led by the Ministry of Home Affairs and will deal with complaints on illegal or criminal activities, the second committee will be under the Ministry of Information & Broadcasting and will handle misinformation or fake content and the third committee will take care of copyright issues.

The GACs will ensure that an appeal is resolved within 30 calendar days from the date of receiving of the appeal. "Every order passed by the Grievance Appellate Committee should be complied with by the intermediary concerned and a report to that effect should be uploaded on its website," said the government.

A long way to go

The law mandates social media companies to remove any content if a GAC asks them to do so. However, it is easier said than done, especially in a country like India where the number of complaints is very high. According to the DataReportal website, India was home to 467 million social media users as of January 2023, equating to 32.8% of the country's total population.

According to the monthly report in compliance with the new IT rules, 2021, microblogging site Twitter said it had received 755 complaints from users in India through its grievance redressal mechanisms from October 26 to November 25, 2022. It has banned 45,589 accounts. Similarly, Meta Inc removed 22.9 million posts, including photos, videos and comments in India across both its platforms, Facebook and Instagram, in November 2022. WhatsApp banned 3.72 million bad accounts between November 1 and November 30. Therefore, given the sheer number industry experts are sceptical whether the portal or GACs will be able to deal with the increased workloads.

"Given the volume of appeals and in many instances the complexity of the content in question, one must ask whether three committees consisting of only three members (in each panel) will be able to operate at such scale," said Internet Freedom Foundation (IFF), which conducts advocacy on digital rights and liberties.

Namita Viswanath, Partner, IndusLaw, is of the view that given the GACs are well-rounded in terms of representation; the risk of the executive wing of the government having complete control over them appears to be low. However, she is still in favour of complete independence of any appellate body established in India. "In terms of best practices, the ideal scenario would be to ensure complete independence of any appellate body such as the GACs, while also balancing the government's objective behind creating such a body," said Viswanath.

She also raised concern over periodic reviews of the GACs and how appeals to be resolved by the GACs have not been made public yet.

"Accordingly, there could be a risk of the GACs becoming an instrument for the government to curb on any online speech that they disagree with. Thus, the manner in which appeals are decided will determine whether the GACs take decisions, which may be perceived as being more favourable to the government," said Viswanath.

She further said this risk is especially imminent given that under the IT rules, intermediaries are required to comply with the GACs' decisions and non-compliance carries the risk of intermediaries losing their safe harbour protection under Section 69A of the Information Technology Act, 2000.

> Given the volume of appeals and in many instances the complexity of the content in question, one must ask whether three (GACs) committees consisting of only three members (in each panel) will be able to operate at such scale

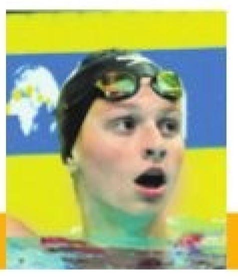
McIntosh beats Ledecky in 200m free at Pro Swim meet



Canadian teen Summer McIntosh beat Katie Ledecky in the 200m free at the Fort Lauderdale Pro Swim, ending the seven-time Olympic gold medallist's nine-year winning streak in home waters. Ledecky hadn't been beaten in a domestic freestyle long course final of 200m or longer since 2014. McIntosh's 1min 54.13sec lowered her own world junior record.

Jadeja	3	106.1	13.9	21	30.3
Patel	3	39	103	1	234

IT was fascinating listening to Steve Smith talk about why he loves captaining in India. He compared decisions he would make on the field to moves on a chess board. To continue that particular analogy, the King's Pawn Opening (1. e4) is one of the oldest and beneficial openings. It's one of the most popular openings with white as it gives the player immediate control over the centre of the board.

A comparable King's Pawn Opening to Tests in India is opening with a spinner. You may have lost the toss but on bone dry surfaces, it's a way to suss out the strip quickly. If pacers err in line or length, they can go for plenty pretty quickly. The only thing that Smith got wrong on the first morning of the Indore Test, apart from calling wrong at the toss, was opening with Mitchell Starc and Cameron Green. On a surface that has since been rated 'poor' by the International Cricket Council (ICC), India had, relatively speaking, motored along to 26 without loss off the first overs.

So, Smith turned to Matthew Kuhnemann. Within a six-ball span, the captain was rewarded as the pitch showed its true colours. Variable bounce, spin, bite and grip. It was all there. With the deck giving all the help, Smith kept rotating the three spinners at his disposal and used them as attacking or defensive options. He also eliminated Green from the bowling group even if there might have been a temptation to go to him because of his high release point (India have struggled against bowlers with high release points in the recent past), it could have further exaggerated the variable bounce on play.

In fact, one of the highlights of Smith's captaincy in this Test has been the way he has used Kuhnemann, Lyon and Murphy at different points. First, he brought on Kuhnemann with two right-handers at the crease. When Cheteshwar Pujara and Virat Kohli were in the middle, he wasted little time in bringing on Nathan Lyon, an off-spinner who has accounted for both of them multiple times. When Kohli showed signs of playing both of them comfortably, he replaced Kuhnemann with Todd Murphy, who has enjoyed a degree of success against Kohli, especially with the arm ball. Off Murphy's 22nd ball, Kohli was trapped by Murphy.

In the second innings, he took the brave decision of keeping Murphy going from one end even if he wasn't getting the wickets. His figures of 14-6-18-0 served the purpose of keeping the hosts quiet at a time when Kuhnemann had lost control thanks to Pujara and Shreyas Iyer messing with his lines. Watching Smith ringing the changes was to watch a Grandmaster at work, somebody who was being proactive, a word he used. At some level, it kind of shone a light on Rohit Sharma as well. When you play three spinners, one of the challenges is to get that balance correctly. It's easy to underbowl one of them. Unfortunately for Sharma, Axar Patel the bowler has been under-utilised this series. That theme continued at Indore where he bowled only 13 overs across two innings. Worse was that 13 overs came across three spells sandwiched by stumps on Day 1. You ask any spinner and they will tell you they like bowling long spells. It allows them to identify the area to bowl on, work the batter, build up a rhythm and keep going.

The left-armer, though, has not been given that luxury by Sharma. He has bowled 39 overs across 11 spells this series for an average of 3.54 overs per spell (roughly 21-22 balls). That's just not enough. To be fair to Sharma, he did agree that he had underbowled Patel in this series. "Look (Ravichandran) Ashwin and (Ravindra) Jadeja have bowled really well so I have to continue to make them bowl as much as possible," he had said before the start of the Test. "If you have three spinners, you know that the third spinner is always underbowled. This time it has been Axar in these two Test matches, you never know who that guy will be in the next two Test matches."

"Because if guys are getting wickets from one side, both sides rather, you have to continue to bowl them, as simple as that. That's how it is. When Axar, Ash and Washington (Sundar) played in Ahmedabad against England, Washi was the one who was underbowled. Probably didn't even bowl too many overs. That's how it is. When you have guys taking wickets and are in good rhythm, you can sense that they need to bowl longer spells. Like fast bowlers, they take a little bit of time to get into rhythm. You need those fingers to come good for you. So you need at least 3-4 overs to get into that rhythm."

There are two things to unpack here. One, what about Patel's rhythm considering he has not even bowled an average of four overs per spell? Secondly, there have been spells across this series where Ashwin and Jadeja have erred in line and length but have been kept on for longer. Both Usman Khawaja and Marnus Labuschagne, after surviving a tricky period, were rotating the strike against both of them. In fact, Ashwin was constantly searching for the right length all through the innings before finding it on the second morning. Compare it to how Smith decided to juggle his three principal weapons at Holkar Stadium. "... 'we have got three of you. If I take you off, it doesn't mean you are bowling badly. It's just that someone else may be able to do a better job at that point of time'," was the message he had told them after losing the toss. "When you have got three spinners, you have to work them that way and keep them as fresh as possible. I was pleased with the way I handled the three spinners."

It's natural for a new captain to have teething problems. This is perhaps one part that Sharma may have to look at before the fourth Test at Ahmedabad, the place where Patel announced himself to the world stage against England.

MONICA Patel was at the top of her mark to deliver the third ball of the 15th over in the first innings of the WPL opening game at the DY Patil Stadium. In strike was Mumbai Indians skipper Harmanpreet Kaur. They were on 129/3 against Gujarat Giants with Kaur batting on 31 from 17 balls.

Over the next eight balls, Kaur announced to the world that the WPL has arrived. Kaur went on to become the first player to hit a fifty as Mumbai posted a mammoth 207/5 in their 20 overs. In reply, Gujarat were bundled out for 64 with Saika Ishaque claiming four wickets. Brief scores: Mumbai Indians 207/5 in 20 ovs (Harmanpreet 65; Rana 2/43) bt Gujarat Giants 64 in 15.1 ovs (Saika 4/11).

RCB OUT WITH A PURPOSE

IN October 2022 when the Senior Women's T20 tournament was underway in Bengaluru, Royal Challengers Bangalore Director of Cricket Operations Mike Hesson shared a picture on Instagram saying, "our scouts are in the house. We don't ignore." While those in the fraternity were aware, it was the first time the IPL franchise had come out in public to say that they are getting ready for a women's IPL.

At that point, nobody knew that the Women's Premier League would be launched within months. But RCB were making sure they were prepared for any possibility of it. And when the time came, they went all out to acquire the Bangalore franchise and did the same in the auction to assemble an all-star squad for the inaugural edition of the tournament.

They had Smriti Mandhana as captain, a stellar support staff and had brought in tennis champion Sania Mirza as the mentor on the field. Off it, they announced "sports for all" initiative on Saturday in Mumbai, which will focus on building icons, identifying talents, providing them opportunity to play and leverage and expand the existing fan base.

While they have started the work on the first two with the stars they have got in the auction and the talents they scouted through former India cricketer Vanitha VR, Prathmesh Mishra, CCO of Diageo and Chairman of RCB said that the roadmap to providing more opportunities will begin after the tournament. As for the fourth point, if leveraging the audience and creating a market, they know the work they have to do. Mishra said ensuring the engagement of the fans and the next generation is key to making this tournament and the franchise a success. "If you look at Young India, they are all citizens of the global world. They are netizens, they are all digitally savvy and engaging them is the most critical aspect. We all know that and this youth is driving the country and not reaching out to them is not an option. They are the largest cohort," Mishra told this daily.

"The onus is on these five teams to actually make an impact. I'm sure if you do a good job, fill the stadiums create excitement in every nook and corner of the country, then the BCCI may look at it, open it up and the teams will get an opportunity to come back and expand," Mishra told this daily.

However, success isn't the only goal in this franchise's mind. They knew they are not going to make the numbers financially even before they spent ₹901 crore on the team. "We didn't think too much of returns for the women's team. As I mentioned, it's the purpose. It's the ecosystem that will be the larger impact. If all goes well, India is the growth for next not decade, maybe next 100 years," he added.

'Top pro' Fulton brings lot of promise

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Indore

Craig Fulton

WITH the Olympics only 16 months away, it was always going to be a challenge for Hockey India (HI) to attract a coaching superstar. With several of the elite coaches happy to stay with their respective teams, HI had no option but two appoint three interim coaches for the next assignment, two-legged home Pro League ties against Germany and Australia, over the next 10 days or so.

Over the long-term, though, they have appointed Craig Fulton, a South African who has an impressive CV. He came into the limelight after helping Ireland qualify for the Olympics; a first for the nation in over 100 years. He won the 2015 Coach of the Year award for that. He has also proven to be an elite operator at club level as he led Royal Racing Club Bruxelles to a domestic title last year.

His CV also includes the time he spent as assistant coach of the Belgian senior men's national team. He was in the dugout when they won the World Cup in 2018 as well as the Olympics in 2021. So, what kind of a coach is Fulton, whose appointment in itself is a significant departure after hiring coaches from The Netherlands and Australia in recent times. Shane McCleod, the former Belgian national coach, knows Fulton better than most. He picks up the story. "We were watching him closely when he was coach of the Irish team," he tells this daily from Belgium. "We thought he would be a good addition so we brought him onboard."

He immediately proved to be a good addition as the players enjoyed working with him. The one thing he brings with him 'is positive vibes', according to McCleod. Thomas Briels, who was the World Cup-winning captain in 2018, concurs. "I think the players liked the fact he was around the team," he says. "He's mister positive, always smiling, and a very nice guy. He radiates positive vibes."

The one thing Briels loved the most about working with Fulton was the way he communicated with the players. "He's a very good communicator, he makes the players better and gives them tips. He makes sure that players feel good, a top professional." McLeod also signs from the same hymn sheet.

Briels gets intimate when he's talking about Fulton's methodology. "He gives the players creative freedom to perform," he tells. Most top coaches prefer this coaching methodology where they let the players problem solve on the field of play.

McLeod, who knows all about the culture and system in India, says Fulton will adapt quickly. "He's tactically quite innovative so you may see some new things. Also, some coaches bring with them a philosophy and expect players to play on those lines but he's adaptable so he will be happy to work based on the strengths of the players he's inheriting. So, for example, you could maybe see a more counter-attacking approach to the game. It could be a big feature of how they play." After the Pro League games finish in the Summer, Fulton's immediate in-tray will consist of qualifying for the Olympics by winning the Olympics.

Arsenal stage sensational comeback

AGENCIES @ Manchester

MANCHESTER CITY rode their luck to post a 2-0 win over Newcastle in the Premier League on Saturday. Later, Arsenal pulled of a sensational 3-2 win against Bournemouth.

The Gunners were 0-2 down for around 60 minutes before fighting back to record a memorable win. With the day's results, the gap between the title contenders remains at five points with Arsenal sitting on top.

Earlier, Phil Foden and Bernardo Silva scored the goals for Manchester City, who were let off the hook at the Etihad by a series of glaring misses from the visitors. Sean Longstaff, Callum Wilson and Joelinton were all guilty of not even forcing Ederson into a save as Newcastle suffered another blow to their hopes of a top-four finish.

City have shown flickers of their best form in recent weeks but relied on two moments of inspiration to claim a vital three points from a disjointed performance. Foden struggled for form and fitness following the World Cup, but the England international has looked more like his old self over the past week. The 22-year-old ghosted past four Newcastle challenges to score his fourth goal in three games thanks to the aid of a deflection off Sven Botman to beat Nick Pope on 15 minutes. A first full season under Saudi ownership that promised so much is beginning to fade for Newcastle. Eddie Howe's men missed out on the club's first major trophy for 54 years in losing the League Cup final to Manchester United.

Results: Man City 2-0 Newcastle; Arsenal 3-2 Bournemouth; Wolves 1-0 Tottenham; Brighton 4-0 West Ham; Chelsea 1-0 Leeds; Aston Villa 1-0 Crystal Palace.

Yashasvi Jaiswal mauled a hapless Madhya Pradesh attack into submission with another near flawless hundred as Rest of India remained favourites to retain the Irani Cup at the end of fourth day's proceedings here on Saturday. Jaiswal, who struck a sublime 213 in the first innings, scored a magnificent 144 out of his team's second innings total of 246, setting a tough target of 437 for the hosts.

Brief scores: ROI 484 & 246 (Jasiwal 144) vs MP 294 (Dubey 109) & 81/2.

F1 season begins, but not live on mainstream broadcasters

VISHNU PRASAD

Max Verstappen claimed pole for the season-opening Bahrain GP, with Sergio Perez completing a Red Bull front-row lockout. Ferrari's Charles Leclerc was third | AFP

A brand new Formula 1 season will be flagged off at the Bahrain International Circuit on Sunday, with the season-opening Bahrain Grand Prix. Many Indian fans of the sport, though, will not be following that familiar ritual of switching on their television in time for race.

For the first time in more than three decades, Formula 1 will not be telecast by a mainstream media entity in India. This comes after Disney Star, who held both television and streaming rights until last year, and Formula 1 failed to reach an agreement over the rights. The only option for Indian fans to watch the sport will be subscribing to Formula 1's in-house streaming app F1 TV. However, with an annual subscription priced at ₹2499, it may not fall within the budget of many fans. The pricing makes F1 TV one of the costliest OTT platforms in India without the diversity in content that other platforms carry.

For a lot of fans, Formula 1 no longer being on Indian television marks the end of an era. Karun Chandhok, one of only two Indians to race in F1 is one of them. "It's a shame to hear that F1 won't be on any of the main linear TV channels in India this year," he said. "Obviously, it will be available on F1 TV. I remember the first race which was telecast live in India, which was the 1993 Spanish Grand Prix. It was on Prime Sports, which later became Star Sports. It's been a long time now that F1 has been there." Karun, who is now part of Sky Sports F1 live coverage team, also has another reason to be disappointed. "For me personally, this also means that my commentary won't be going to Indian audiences, which is disappointing."

Interestingly, Formula 1 is keen to emphasize that rather than there not being broadcaster interest, this was a strategic decision keeping in mind the valuation of the broadcasting rights.

"Our previous agreement with Star expired at the end of last season," Ian Holmes, F1's Director of Media Rights and Content Creation told this daily over email. "This agreement was part of a broader agreement we had with Fox in Asia. Fox closed down, but we extended with Star in India for the duration of the Fox contract which came to an end last year."

"We looked at the more traditional channels and platforms. Star was one of them. We had discussions with Zee and one or two others too. I want to be candid about this – we felt that the valuation of many of those parties placed on our property wasn't similar to what we felt it was worth," he said.

Holmes said that the previous contract ending presented them with an opportunity to launch F1 TV in India and that reception to it had been better than what they anticipated. "We were always keen to see which Asian territories we could launch F1 TV in," he said. "Under the old Fox/Star contract we couldn't do that. So when the agreement ended an opportunity came up for us to launch it. We don't share numbers, but we did a lot of research in the market before launch to understand what we could expect, and I can say we are ahead of our expectations in terms of subscribers."
